Liquor Prescription Limitation Upheld

COURT RULES PINT EACH 10 DAYS ENOUGH

Volstead Medicinal Provision Is Approved by U. S. Supreme Tribunal

DECISION IS 5 TO 4
Contention of New York Man, with Medical Association Support, Denied

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The Volstead act liquor prescription limitation, one pint, containing not more than one-half pint of alcohol, to one patient within 10 days, was upheld by the U. S. supreme court today.

The fight against prescription limitation was brought by Samuel W. Lambert, New York, from an adverse appellate court decision in his suit for an injunction to restrain federal authorities from enforcing the one-pint limitation provision, which he argued was unreasonable, unconstitutional and unauthorized by the 18th amendment.

Supported by Medical Body
The American Medical association supported Lambert's contention, filing a brief in his support, asserting that alcohol had wholesome medicinal uses and stating that the maximum doses allowed by law had no relation whatever to the medical needs of the sick.

The government was joined by the Anti-Saloon league in opposition to Lambert's suit. They asserted the point had already been ruled upon in favor of the limitation, but the high court granted Lambert a review.

The Volstead provision involved had been decided four times in lower federal courts, having been upheld twice and held invalid twice.

Four Justices Dissent
Dissent of Justices McReynolds, Brandeis, Stone and Sutherland was announced by Sutherland, in an opinion defending use of liquor as valuable in medicine.

Congress has found that wines and distilled liquors were needed for medicine, although malt liquor was not, Sutherland said, adding that the court should follow the dictates of congress.

Justice Brandeis read the majority opinion, which held merely that congress had power to limit liquor for medicinal purposes.

Other justices who supported this view were Taft, Holmes, Vandevanter and Sanford.

Sutherland asserted congress has exceeded its power and transgressed within the right of states to regulate medical practice within their borders.

DENIES MURDER

Mrs. Hall Excused from Witness Stand After Bitter Quizzing

(By United Press)
SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 29.—Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall stepped down from the witness stand today, after insisting, under four hours of searching examination, that she had no connection with the murder of her husband, the Rev. Edward W. Hall, and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, choir singer.

The sneering, bullying fire of questions from Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor, failed also to shake her insistence that she did not even suspect the love affair between her husband and Mrs. Mills, which was the scandal of New Brunswick, before her murder, on Sept. 14, 1922.

The best Simpson could do was to force her to admit that, after the cumulative evidence of the last four years, "some slight thing" might have been going on without her knowledge, but her obstinate loyalty to the murdered man would not let her admit that he had been "unfaithful."

When she was released and court adjourned for lunch.

This afternoon after calling two witnesses to support portions of her testimony, the defense rested.

The closing witnesses were Mrs. Paul Bonner and Mrs. Fannie H. Voorhees, sisters of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, who came to the defense of the widow, accused of their brother's murder, with statements supporting her alibi defense.

Sitting on the witness stand, calm and unruffled, the widow faced the accusing cross-questioning of Simpson unflinchingly.

Each question was framed to pierce the widow's armor, but always she parried with her steadfast insistence that she had no motive for the crime.

"Simpson referred ironically to 'your husband, so loyal and so devoted' and to 'Mrs. Mills, whom you did not suspect.' He asked: 'Now, your husband was a very honorable man, yet when you found a choir singer had disappeared you put her right with him?'"

"As I explained before, when my husband left me on Thursday night, he said he was going to see Mrs. Mills about a bill. When I learned

Mt. Vesuvius Aglow with Fiery Lava

(By United Press)
NAPLES, Nov. 29.—The rim of Mount Vesuvius' crater is aglow with lava which, like molten gold, is flowing down the crater's cone in rivulets of fire.
A rain late Sunday failed to subdue the fiery red glow, for so intense was the heat that the rain drops were evaporated before they struck the lava.
The stream, which began Saturday, when a small eruption ripped off the northern half of the crater, will deposit between three and five million cubic meters of lava on the surrounding countryside.
The village of Terzigno, at the base of Vesuvius, will escape damage, it is believed.

PREPARE FOR HARD FIGHT ON DAM BILL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(Special)—Prepared to make a hard fight to have the Swing-Johnson Boulder dam bill reported out of the house committee and passed by both senate and house this session, Charles Childers, attorney for the Imperial Valley Irrigation district; former Senator W. J. Carr, representing the city of Pasadena, and W. B. Mathews and T. A. Panter, representing the city of Los Angeles, arrived here today.

They at once went into conference with Senator Hiram Johnson to work out plans to bring about consideration of the bill by the senate, as soon as possible after congress convenes next week.

Senator Johnson already has asked the steering committee of the senate to give the bill a preferred position on the calendar. Congressman Swing also plans to at once take it up in the house irrigation committee.

Seeks Easy Cash; Bilked of $200

FRESNO, Nov. 29.—Dollar bills for 25 cents each sounded like a good proposition to Martin Ohanessian and he gave two men $200 for $800 in bills, according to his complaint to police, who told Ohanessian that the "salesmen" were bunco artists.

Ohanessian told the police that he recently acquired "friends" informed him they were counterfeiting bills and showed him the camera which they used to perform the trick.

He gave them $200 and they gave him a box, which, when opened, was found to contain a dollar bill and a quantity of blank paper.

Review Granted In Phone Case

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Los Angeles county tax officials today were granted by the U. S. supreme court a review of an injunction, granted to the Southern California Telephone company and the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, restraining the tax officials from seizing the 300,000 telephone instruments in the county for unpaid taxes. Officials sought to seize the property after the American Telephone and Telegraph company failed to pay a personal property tax of $52,000 on it.

They are accused of robbing an 80-year-old Kentucky hermit, Louis Muller, of Chicago, $2600, according to telegraphic information from Fort Thomas.

Heath and his wife were arrested here shortly after their arrival from the east in an automobile, alleged to have been purchased with Muller's money.

Appearing penitent, Pinegar told the court that it was his first criminal deed, done because of dire financial circumstances, and that he was eager to serve his time and start right.

Prosecutor and Deputy on Trial

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 29.—District Attorney C. C. Kemperley and his deputy, Guy Sellock, went on trial in superior court today, on charges of having accepted a $40,000 bribe to suppress evidence in a murder trial, in June, 1925. The officials were indicted several months ago by the county grand jury. The indictments charged them with taking money from William R. Johnson, of Chicago, in exchange for concealing evidence against Thomas Johnson and Hugh McGovern, who were acquitted by a jury on a charge of killing George McMahon.

ANOTHER WEEK TIDES WATCHED OF RAINS DUE FOR BODIES OF ON WEST COAST 6 BOY HUNTERS

Three-Day Storm Period Will Be Followed by New Disturbance

(By United Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—Another week of generally heavy rain is in prospect for the Pacific coast, reports to district weather bureau headquarters indicated today.

Influence of a new disturbance, centered west of Vancouver island, off British Columbia, today was felt in Oregon, Washington and Idaho and in sections of both northern and Southern California.

Rains arising from this storm activity will prevail generally over the Pacific coast states for the next three days, weather charts indicated.

On the heels of this disturbance, a third storm area will move inland, bringing new rains for the latter part of the week.

Serious flood conditions existed today in Marin county. Rain, falling incessantly for 14 hours, caused residents and business men of the region skirting the northwest edge of San Francisco bay to move destructible belongings from basements and low ground to safety spots. Slides blocked traffic on two highways, and traffic over the electric lines of the Northwestern Pacific railroad was impaired when water rose above the third rail, supplying current.

San Francisco and the bay region were hardest hit in the rainfall of the 24-hour period ended this morning. San Francisco's precipitation was 1.42 inches, bringing the season total to 2.15 inches, compared with the normal mark of 3.85.

NEW TRAIL OF LAW BLAZED BY DECISION

BIG VICTORY FOR U. S.
Secrecy Surrounding Deal Of Oil Magnate and Fall Read Into Court Record

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The whole evidence of the oil millionaire, E. L. Doheny's loan of $100,000 to former Secretary of the Interior Fall before the jury here today, in the trial of Doheny and Fall on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government.

The secrecy surrounding the deal; the transfer of the sum in cash from New York to Washington in a little brown bag; the repeated denials of Fall that he received money from Doheny and his admittedly untrue assertion that he received it from E. B. McLean, Washington newspaper publisher—all were spread on the court record in one decisive maneuver of the government prosecution.

The action came as a result of decision of Justice A. J. Hoehling that the evidence of the senate investigating committee in 1923-24 could be presented.

Salient Circumstances Read
Prosecuting counsel therefore was permitted to read to the jury all the salient circumstances of the "oil scandal investigation."

The evidence was vital to the government case and was admitted over strenuous objections of the defense.

The ruling of Justice Hoehling blazed a new trail of law. It held that anyone who voluntarily gives evidence to a congressional investigating committee is not entitled to immunity from prosecution.

The defense argued the senate testimony could not be placed in evidence in a criminal trial on an indictment against the men who testified, under express provisions of a statute passed many years ago. The only exception under strict interpretation of the statute is in cases of perjury arising from the testimony itself.

The prosecution asserted the statements were voluntary and the defendants waived immunity when they appeared to testify without subpoenas and the court upheld this view.

Decision Held Important
The decision was important in this case because the prosecution counted on the committee testimony to establish the facts on the actual transfer of cash and also to support its contention that intrigue and falsification existed among the oil scandal principals as to the facts in the case.

A statement was the letter by Fall to the senate committee, dated Dec. 26, 1923, and presented two days later, just after the ranch purchase by the supposedly impoverished Fall. It said E. B. McLean advanced the money. The prosecution wished to present this against Fall only.

The other statements were made to the committee by Doheny, January 24 and Feb. 1, 1924. McLean had confirmed and then repudiated the story that he lent the money. Doheny came forward and said he advanced the money. The prosecution wished to present this against Fall only.

Decision Is Lengthy
Justice Hoehling, going fully into arguments of defense and prosecution, consumed nearly an hour in reading his decision. In connection with Fall's letter to the senate committee, the court maintained it was not evidence, because not given under oath. Fall stated in the letter he received $100,000 from McLean, a Washington newspaper publisher.

Regarding Doheny's oral commitment testimony, in which he admitted he sent Fall the $100,000, the court pointed out the statement was voluntary.

The judge's sweeping decision held there was no foundation in "reason or in law" for any of the score of objections raised by the defense and overruled all.

"There is no suggestion that either of these defendants should be beneficiaries of immunity sometimes granted by a congressional committee," said the justice.

Letter Voluntary Statement
The decision stated in reference to Fall's letter:

"It was nothing more or less than a voluntary, unsworn, ex parte written statement purporting to state certain facts and which statement the sender expressly requested should be placed upon the records of senate committee. Owen Roberts, special government counsel, read Doheny's senate testimony.

testimony, quoting Doheny as then testifying:
"Mr. Fall has been making an effort to keep my name out of this for fear a full statement had been misunderstood. I now want to make a full statement. On Nov. 30, 1921, I loaned Albert B. Fall $100,000 on his promissory note to enable him to purchase a ranch adjoining his property at Three Rivers, N. M."

Claims Loan Personal

Doheny said the money was loaned by him personally and not by any of his companies. He said Fall had not benefited in any way by the loan.

Doheny told the senate committee he could have lent Fall a million dollars without interfering with the conduct of his business.

"A $100,000 loan was nothing more to me than a loan of $25 to a man in ordinary circumstances," he added.

"I guess I am just an impulsive, imprudent, old-fashioned sort of a prospector," he said at another point. "I will admit that the circumstances of the loan are such that it might have induced Senator Fall to favor me, but I insist he could not have favored me if he wanted to, in connection with the leases, because the negotiations were carried on by someone else."

REVIEW DENIED IN ANNUAL SUIT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—One of the government's suits to annul lease on the Elk Hills (California) naval oil reserve, made previous to the senate oil investigation to the Belridge Oil company, was denied a review by the U. S. supreme court today. The government lost in lower courts.

This suit was brought by the justice department. The Belridge company has removed more than 2,000,000 barrels of oil from the 142-acre lease.

Federal circuit and appellate courts upheld the lease, which was issued by Assistant Interior Secretary Finney, on order of Secretary Albert B. Fall. No fraud was alleged in this case. In the E. L. Doheny and Harry Sinclair oil leases, fraud is alleged, putting them in a different legal class.

Several principles involved in this case were similar to the others, however. The government contended President Harding had no power to delegate to the secretary of the interior power to lease the navy's lands. It also contended the lease was invalid because competitive bids had not been called for.

The government, however, won a slight victory today in the Teapot Dome annulment case, before the supreme court, on appeal for review. The court granted the government a delay until December 9 in filing its answer to the Mammoth Oil company's petition for review. The government had asked postponement until the court announces decision in the similar Elk Hills annulment case, now under advisement.

SUNDAY SERMON

"NEGLECTED GRATITUDE"

Text: "Forget not all His benefits."—Psalms 103:2.

If we—men and women—humanity—are the creatures of time, how strangely we deal with it, as a stranger yet, how mysteriously it deals with us. If it be the servant, and we the Master, how persistently do we neglect to exercise our authority; if it be the Master, and we the servant, how slavishly and cringing do we accept its yoke of bondage. "The day is saved," say, and yet, from waking moment to its last conscious moment, we are driven by the lash of the fleeting minutes. We are never done. We have never achieved completely. We are always a step behind. In frenzied haste, with energy uselessly applied, we stumble and stagger, fretting and complaining, clutching hopelessly at the vanishing hour. And then comes the touch of bitterness, the taste of ashes, the gloom of despair, the bruised spirit, the heart without a song, the life barren and waste, without the saving and exalting touch of appreciation, remembrance and gratitude. Hopelessness, despair, darkness. What a desolate and dreary old world this would be if it were the common experience of us all. But, thank God, it is not and need not be. And why not? The answer is not hard to find, even though many fail to find it. The joy of life is granted, not to those who are selfish, but to those who are unselfish. The peace of life comes not to those who lay miserably hands on all its gifts, but to those who would receive only to give again. The glory of life comes to gladden and to bless, not to the hurry, fretting, complaining, falling serfs and slaves, but to the men and women who exact tribute from Time—treasures from the Past, unaffected by moth and rust—happiness from Today, untarnished by the dust of the world, the flesh and the devil—and a comparative contentment from the Future, unruffled by every lure and artifice of a carnal human nature.

It is the purpose of this sermon to thrust before your attention the thought of the obligation of gratitude, or to put it into more exact words, our obligation to manifest gratitude. Our theme is "Neglected Gratitude," and the text is chosen from Psalms 103, verse 2—"Forget not all His benefits." To those who have eyes and ears to see and hear the mercies of Jehovah, this Psalm is as a cool, refreshing drink. To every one of its many beautiful statements concerning the mercies of God, the heart responds with a glad "amen." Not only should we celebrate Thanksgiving according to the calendar, but also according to the heart. Gratitude is more than a national obligation. It is a personal indebtedness. Recognizing the ties that bind us to the land of our birth and choice, let us rightly appreciate the blessings, which under the sovereign hand of God, have been granted unto us. We do well to think carefully in these days. Distorted facts, garbled reports, half-truths, malicious propaganda, are freely interwoven with the unadulterated truth. This is true in political, national and international, racial and inter-racial matters. Due to our newer methods of transportation and communication, the world has become a relatively small community, as compared to what it used to be, in matters of time and space. We have thereby multiplied many-fold the possibilities for misunderstandings, mutual distrust, hatred maliciously fostered, suspicion, jealousy, and all the foul brood wherewith is broken down the fine spirit of concord, peace, and brotherhood. We need to think deep and hard in all these matters, lest we find ourselves to be leaning on broken reeds. This is true of all God's world. We need God in the affairs of state and nation. We have been conscious of His presence hitherto, and it ought to move us to profound gratitude. It is not merely the indication of a sectarian religious belief, to thus testify to an appreciation of God's manifest presence in the affairs of world and nation; but rather an expressed belief, which is rapidly being accepted the world over, by those who are doing the world's real thinking. The belief is this—this world cannot successfully maintain or attain a civilization, enduringly founded on right principles of justice, good-will, liberty and peace, without taking God into account and partnership. At this Thanksgiving season, we as citizens of this land, thankfully acknowledge the benefits of God's providence, so graciously bestowed upon us as a people and as a nation. And with our gratitude, we voice our earnest prayer that our God will mercifully continue to abide with us, and cause to be exalted those imperishable ideals of truth and righteousness, by which alone greatness has come to any people or nation.

But the boundaries of our gratitude reach farther than our national thanksgivings. In innumerable ways, our lives have been enriched by the toil and labor and sacrifice of others. We are indebted to those who have lived before us. We are largely the product of the past. We ought not drink too deeply of that pride of self, which foolishly shuts out of our appreciation and gratitude, the splendid heritage of the past. "Forget not," says the Psalmist. Stated positively, it means "Remember." To remember is to recognize the claim, and to acknowledge its claim. Notice here, first, the daily bestowal of God's mercies. Not a spasmodic, emergency method of bestowal, but a daily stream of blessings, too numerous to count. That you have not enjoyed them daily, is not proof that they were not measured out for you. Perhaps you were too busy with selfish things; perhaps you were indifferent to God's presence in your daily life. Oh, I know, this is the record of many a day—self first, business first, school first, everything first, and God last. And

Jesus said "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness" and we put Him last. Is it right? Is it right? Remember this, if you do not appropriate His mercies today, you cannot remember them with appreciation tomorrow.

First then, the daily appropriation of God's mercies. Second, a keen-edged remembrance of them when they are past. I do not say gone, for is it possible for a divine mercy and favor to just die out and be gone? Surely not in its effect upon our lives. Why this admonition, "Forget not all His benefits"? Is this an arbitrary imposition of a divine command? Is this to be a sort of ritualistic or ceremonial shackles, by which we bind ourselves, the daily doing of a thing, just because it is demanding? No, this is the key to a divine secret.

First of all, this gratitude of remembrance is the key which unlocks the secret treasure house of true happiness. Life is not merely living by rote, nor is it merely our instinctive reaction to the circumstances of daily living. Those who hold to the mechanistic theory of life, see life sharp and clear enough, and too clearly for our comfort, sometimes—but they do not see it all. If life were no more than what a trained eye and ear can wrest from a careful study of it, then would it indeed be a hollow mockery. Nor is life in its entirety, merely "practical." Life is more than what you can measure with a foot-rule, and weigh on scales. There are intangibles, indefinable assets, unseen yet very real. What of aims, and ambitions, and ideals? What of the finest altruistic motives, urging, prompting, without any thought of possible reward? A rose without its delicate perfume might be a rose still, but to us it is a better and finer rose because of its perfume. No, life is more than a bundle of analyzed habits, carefully catalogued by modern psychologists. Life is rooted in the past. Our heritage comes not of the future but of the past. In the right appreciation of that which lies in this past, in the careful sifting of the wheat from the chaff—out of this attitude of mind and heart come the great aspirations and the uplifting confirmations of the soul. True happiness is set free not in the heart and life that is walled around with selfishness, but in the heart and life that knowledge is indebtedness to others. Thus is born true happiness.

In the next place, this gratitude of remembrance is the key that unlocks the secret treasure house of life's true appreciations. We borrow more than we create. We did not invent the alphabet, but we use it. We may not have traveled around the earth, but others have and we accept their verdict that it is round. We have not measured the distance to the sun, but others have, and we understand the universe better because of this. In ten thousand ways, we benefit because of what others have gone and thought. The remembrance of our indebtedness for this brings to us a new appreciation of life. Could we not borrow from the past, how limited, cramped, circumscribed and futile it would be.

But as we remember, and as we gratefully appreciate there are released within ourselves those dynamic powers that make for balance, and poise, and peace and power. What marvelous enrichment come to life as we weave into its warp and woof these sparkling threads of gratitude.

And once more, this gratitude of remembrance is the key that unlocks the secret treasure-house of a right understanding of the omnipotent power of God. There are those who deny this. They were known and described even in ancient days, for a sacred writer says of them "The fool saith in his heart, there is no God." We are called upon to remember, not merely the benefits that have come to us through human channels. God here claims a right to our gratitude. He claims for them, that they are His benefits. Grant this claim, and immediately you are face to face with the omnipotent power of God, at work in this world. Several things then follow. Those forces that make for wrong, unrighteousness, discord, sin, whether they be human or super-human, or both, are not having the world to themselves. God is also at work in the world. This is also denied, but how can spiritual forces be perceived by those who are spiritually blind? If God is at work in the world, it is inconceivable that He should be unable to be the ultimate victor. If He is God, then the outcome is assured. Here is born faith and hope; here life begins to glow with new meaning, and the life that is enhanced

MUSICIAN GIVES HIMSELF UP TO OFFICERS HERE

In a strange country, without funds and without work and with his conscience weighing heavily on him, James A. King, 34, a musician and former orchestra leader in Auburn, Wn., last night walked into the police station here and surrendered to Sid Smithwick, assistant city marshal, after confessing that he was a fugitive from justice and a thief.

King told his story like a man who was in a hurry to clear his mind of something that had been troubling him for a long time, according to police.

He confessed to stealing a trumpet, valued at $168, from one of the members of his orchestra, and selling it for $40. Receiving the money, he hurriedly left the state of Washington. Now he wants to go back, face the "music" and "get it all over with."

King said that he had not fared well in Southern California; that he could not find work—and the money he possessed when he came is all gone. He was downcast and penitent.

Smithwick locked him in the Orange county jail, where he is being held pending word from Auburn. James Riley, who King said now was in charge of the orchestra he once led, was wired for confirmation of King's story, but so far no answer has been received by officers.

But that scaffold sways the future;
And behind the dim unknown,

Let us gather up the spiritual significance of this text, "Forget not all His benefits," and hear the echo of it in an old hymn—
"Blest be that name, supremely blest,
From the sun's rising to its rest;
Above the heaven's His power is known,
Thro' all the earth His goodness shown;
He hears the uncomplaining moan,
Of those who sit and weep alone,
He lifts the mourner from the dust,
In Him the poor may safely trust."

O, then aloud, in joyful lays,
Sing to the Lord Jehovah's praise,
His saving name let all adore,
From age to age, forevermore."

Chest Workers

Will Conduct Cleanup Drive

Winding up the campaign of the last two weeks, officers of the Santa Ana and Tustin Community Chest today were laying plans for a cleanup campaign, to be launched Wednesday, in an effort to reach the 1927 budget, set at $43,850.

According to Roland E. Dyet, secretary of the chest organization, the chest still is short about $7000. It was predicted, however, that with several thousand unreported prospect cards, many of them subscribers to the 1925 and 1926 fund, several thousand dollars will be added to the present aggregate.
Details of the cleanup campaign will be discussed at a special meeting of the community chest directors, to be held next Wednesday, it was said.

A great child specialist

—has said, "You cannot develop keen mind and sound characters in unsound ill-conditioned bodies."
The great outstanding role for health, for both adults and children, is regularity in all the details of life. Regular food—regular rest and above all, regular and complete elimination of waste.

You can train your body in the habit of perfect absorption of food, and perfect elimination of waste if you will but rely on the one safe and intelligent means of so doing, i. e., Perfectly Balanced Food!

ROMAN MEAL, the "Happy Medium" in cereal foods, neither too-refined nor yet composed of unrefined bran, will build your health on a sound basis and maintain it perfectly if you can use this wonder food each day, some way.

NEW ELECTRIC LINES LOOM IN ORANGE COUNTY

Electrification of Southern Pacific lines between Santa Ana and Newport Beach and the construction of a new line from Santa Ana to Anaheim and from Anaheim to Stearns by the Pacific Electric loomed today as the result of an intersectional committee meeting held last week in Corona. Approximately 30 persons, representing 16 towns, were present.

A committee of 15 persons was appointed at the meeting to investigate all matters pertaining to the proposed improvements and report to the Pacific Electric company. The committee represents the cities of Newport Beach, Costa Mesa, Balahe, Santa Ana, Orange, Anaheim, Garden Grove, Fullerton, Placentia, Yorba Linda, Riverside,
San Bernardino, Compton, Artesia,
Redlands and Long Beach.

Committee to Organize
The committee, according to C.
A. Bland, of Long Beach, chairman, will meet some time this week for organization. The committee then will secure data on the resources of San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties and present the shipping valuations of the counties to the Pacific Electric company for its consideration. It is believed that the railway company will see its way clear to make the improvements.

Joseph Beek and Dr. Conrad Richter, of Newport Beach, were the representatives of Santa Ana and southern Orange county at the Corona meeting. Dinner was served at the Corona Chamber of Commerce headquarters. Beek and Harry Welch were appointed to the permanent committee.

It was suggested that the Pacific Electric electrify a line from Anaheim to Los Alamitos and then construct a new line from Los Alamitos to Seal Beach. It was pointed out that this line would not open as much territory as would the line through Santa Ana and Costa Mesa.

Route to Harbors
It is said that the electrification of the proposed lines and the construction of a short new line would open a direct route to Orange county, Long Beach and San Pedro harbors from Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

Members of the committee include C. A. Bland, chairman, Long Beach; George Raymer, Santa Ana;
J. A. Beek, Balahe; Harry Welch,
Newport Beach; E. R. Walker, Yorba Linda; George W. Reid, Anaheim; V. D. Johnson, Orange;
Ray Leach, Fullerton; Thomas
Pickersell, Placentia; W. S. Clayton, Corona; A. J. Pierce, Riverside; Roy Mack, San Bernardino;
A. E. Ishman, Redlands; Falk
Walker, Compton, and George Frampton, Artesia.

P. E. CROSSING TRAGEDY ECHO HEARD IN SUITS

The trial of four damage suits, aggregating more than $100,000,
which grew out of the triple tragedy at the Seventeenth street crossing of the Pacific Electric railway, where two youths and a girl were killed on May 7, 1925, started today before a jury in Superior Judge E. J. Marks' court.

The Pacific Electric Railway company and Mr. and Mrs. Otis E. Richards, of Santa Ana, were defendants in the four cases, three of which were filed by survivors of the wreck, while a fourth was filed on account of one of the victims.

Mr. and Mrs. Richards are parents of Glenn A. Richards, 19, one of the youths killed in the accident, which occurred when a car, driven by young Richards, was struck by a Pacific Electric car at the crossing. The others killed were Raymond Kenn, 20, of Glen-dora, and Miss Willa Bloomer, 17, of Villa Park. The injured were Charles Ring Jr., 20, of Santa Ana, and the Misses Ailene Haines, 22,
and Dorothy Haines, 16, of Orange.

The six girls and boys had started on an evening's outing at the beach, which was cut short by the crash.

In the damage suits, it was charged that both Richards and the motorman of the electric car were guilty of negligence; also that the crossing was not properly protected. The automobile had been speeding at a rate of 45 miles per hour, it was charged. The trial was expected to produce one of the bitter legal battles that have characterized similar damage cases in the courts here recently. In each of the recent previous cases, the railway company has emerged winner. Attorney Earl Morris, of Los Angeles, chief of the Pacific Electric's legal staff, was scheduled to head the defense today. Attorneys Head, Rutan and Scovel, of Santa Ana, represent each of the plaintiffs.

Miss Ailene Haines has demanded judgment for $25,477.90 for injuries and expenses resulting from the accident. Her sister, Marjorie, sued for $25,610.40. Charles Ring
Jr., asked judgment for $25,750.
Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bloomer, parents of Willa Bloomer, sued for $25,555 on account of the death of their daughter.

Three automobiles were reported stolen in Orange county over the stolen from a place where it was parked near Sixth and Bush streets, last night, according to a report which he made at the police station. Rivero lives at 515 1-2

Women Find

Great comfort in this new hygienic pad that discards easily as tissue—
no laundry

ON many important counts, women are deserting the old-time "sanitary pad."

There is a new way. A way that multiplies protection. A way, too, that solves the old problem and embarrassment of disposal.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of the old-time sanitary pad. Five times as absorbent! And deodorizes—ends ALL fear of offending.

As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying
"KOTEX." You ask for it without

Progressive Dinner Is Enjoyable Event of Week's End

No form of entertaining is capable of yielding more pleasure and merriment than a progressive dinner, or so the members of the younger social set will assure you, as they recall the various happy features of such an affair which they took part in last Saturday evening.

The interesting dinner began when everyone gathered at the home of Miss Dorothy Beals, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Beals of 1061 French street, where the first course was served. The next place on the menu was the home of Miss Evelyn Metzgar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Metzgar of 816 Bush street. Here the main course was served by Mrs. Metzgar assisted by Miss Eleanor Metzgar and Mr. Metzgar.

Following the second course the merry group hastened to Orange where their hostess, Miss Elaine Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Smith, was awaiting them. Adding to the enjoyment of the salad course was the singing of two solos by McKee Fisk who was assisted at the piano by Miss Elaine Smith.

At Balboa, dessert was served in one of the many interesting restaurants following which the entire party attended the dance being held at the Pavilion. Those who enjoyed the evening were Miss Kate Benton, Miss Juliette Evans, Miss Betty Hoy, Miss Myrtle Ketchum, Miss Elaine Smith, Miss Lois Winslow, Miss Louise Stephenson, Miss Muriel Smith, Miss Evelyn Metzgar, Miss Dorothy Beals, Miss Enid Twist, Allan Goddard, Gerald Twist, Lon McIntyre, Ted Jesse, Jack Langley, Donald Parks, Lyle Kelly, Charles Jackson, Lawrence Minge, Clarence Trickey, Terry Stephenson, and Miss Jennie Lasby and McKee Fisk, chaperons.

Luncheon and Cards For Ebell Section

November days were enlivened for the members of Ebell's first current events section by a delightful party which opened at St. Ann's Inn, progressed through the various stages of greeting, and luncheon to the Ebell clubhouse where the afternoon was concluded.

Mrs. John Kettler and Mrs. J. Riley Huber were hostesses at the event, opening their hospitality at St. Ann's where a delectable luncheon menu was served at a table all soft rose tints with place cards, nut cups, candles, flowers and other appointments heightening the effect.

From the Inn, the scene was transferred to the clubhouse where the remainder of the afternoon was spent in the lounge. In the business session, the resignation of Mrs. Ray Townsend as leader was respectfully accepted. Mrs. Charles W. Chamberlain was named as her successor in office. Mrs. William Maag was elected as a new member.

Plans were discussed for a December dancing party and the date will be announced in the near future. With the conclusion of all business matters, the members gave their attention to bridge and Mrs. Arthur May took first prize while Mrs. George Osterman was consoled.

Christmas Bazaar

First Congregational
On Friday and Saturday of this week, December 3 and 4, the women of the Congregational church will stage their annual Christmas bazaar, towards which they have been bending every effort for the past weeks. It will be held at 417 West Fourth street and each day will be characterized by unusual bargains in lovely hand-made articles for Christmas giving.

Also there will be a rummage sale conducted in connection with the bazaar and this too will offer bargains to thrifty buyers. The cooked food table will have all manner of dainty eatables on both days.

Mrs. Etta D. Sweet as general chairman of the whole affair, will have working under her, Mrs. Franklin P. Nickey sr., at the fancywork booth; Mrs. Freeman Bloodgood, handkerchief booth; Mrs. F. Cockran, apron booth; Mrs. Frank Calkins, cooked food; Mrs. J. A. Ranney, rummage sale. A candy table will offer an unusually sweet attraction and will be in charge of the League of Youth, whose members will be chaperoned by Mrs. H. Krahling.

Church of the Messiah
All of the ticket for the dinner connected with the annual Christmas bazaar of the Church of the Messiah, Protestant Episcopal, have been sold, according to Mrs. W. H. Haddon, general chairman of the bazaar arrangements.

The bazaar will be held Wednesday afternoon and evening and will include a candy booth, fancy work booth, cooked food booth and a special menu table.

Those helping to make the bazaar a success are Mrs. Alice Harris, Mrs. Fay Spangler, Mrs. E. M. McCain, Mrs. E. H. Granger, Mrs. William Whitehead, Mrs. C. S. Dunphy, Mrs. F. H. Finney, Mrs. R. O. Winckler, Mrs. George Chapman, Miss Estelle Mendenhall, Mrs. N. H. Hiss, M. Cusp, Mrs. R. A. Hart, Miss Martha Mendenhall, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Noel Berry and Mrs. Terry Stephenson.

Young girls who will serve the dinner, will be the Misses Anne Haddon, Virginia Berry, Louise Stephenson, Kate Benton, Enid Twist, Margaret Bondley, Catherine Chapman and Olive Granger.

Young People Depart For Wichita After Quiet Wedding

At a quiet ceremony of last Friday evening for which will be of interest to friends in Santa Ana, Lawrence Lurker, brother of Cyrus H. Lurker of Tustin, was wedded to Miss Thelma Thane.

The Rev. F. T. Porter, pastor of the First Christian church, read the marriage service very impressively in the study of his home at 640 North Van Ness avenue with Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Lurker as sole guests.

The bride, an attractive Los Angeles girl, looked very charming in a gown of rosewood georgette with which cloak, hat, furs and other details of her costume, harmonized beautifully.

Kindergarten Bands On Theater Program

Since there is probably no one feature of our city schools that is of more general interest than the kindergarten bands, announcement that two such organizations were to combine in a between-acts program at the West Coast-Walker theater in the near future, will be of wide general interest.

The two are, McKinley, a band of 46 members directed by Miss Clarice Marx, kindergarten, and John Muir, of 22 members, under Miss Linda Mueller, kindergarten. The aggregation of 68 tiny musicians, playing cymbals, drums, tambourines, castanets, bells and triangles, will give two ensemble numbers while each separate band will play four numbers. Their appearance will be on Wednesday night, December 8.

The John Muir band will be remembered as one of the outstanding features of the Armistice Day parade when they played all along the line of march, their blue and white uniforms making a bright touch of color. Master Buddy Wyckoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wyckoff, 901 East Chestnut street, is director, while in the McKinley organization, Master Harry Thompson directs the little players, all in red and white uniforms.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Congregational Women's
union will hold an all-day meeting at the church Wednesday. The business session will be at 10 a. m. when officers for the new church year will be elected. Smith, Frederica Miller and Maude Swarthout.

The Baptist Women's society will meet at the church Wednesday for an all-day session. In the afternoon session, the Misses Viola Hill, Florence and Gladys Skevington, missionaries in the foreign field, will be especially honored. Mrs. G. P. Hill of Hemet will be present to represent Miss Hill and will tell of her daughter's new work in Shaohing where she was recently transferred from Ning Po. Mrs. H. J. AFTERNOON GOWNS OF TODAY ARE DELIGHTFULLY COLORFUL

HERE ARE PICTURED TWO OF THE COLORFUL AFTERNOON GOWNS IN QUESTION. ONE SHOWS A CONSERVATIVE STYLE DEVELOPED IN PRINTED VELVET IN WHICH THE FULLNESS OF THE SKIRT IS ALL CENTERED IN THE FRONT. IN THE OTHER, A HUGE BUTTERFLY BOW OF BRILLIANT SILK BREAKS THE CONTRAST BETWEEN THE LIGHT CREPE OF THE BODICE AND THE DARK CREPE OF THE SKIRT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Though the evening gowns of this season are lovely indeed, they are not more colorful and more intriguing than those for day.

Gone indeed are the days when dark colors and conservative lines prevailed until six in the evening. Today many of the materials that are fashionable for evening are allowed also by day. Velvet, the most sought after material for evening, is found in many beautiful patterns for afternoon frocks as well.

The light crepes, satin back crepes, and chiffons and thin crepes that are so charming in pastel shades for evening are to be found in deep red, green, gray and beige for day.

Black More Popular
And whereas there is a great revival of interest in black, and every dispatch from Paris strengthens its growing supremacy, there is still a great interest in the deep autumnal colors so appropriate this season of the year.

The silhouette for day is practically that for evening except that it is a little shorter, and a little straighter. The bloused effect is less in evidence for sport wear and for day dresses than it is for evening, though its influence is growing, and there is less tendency toward wide draperies, and elaborate hemlines.

The waistline is usually indicated at the top of the hips, although occasionally the normal waistline is suggested as well as in the very attractive model photographed today.

Victim of Crash Is Removed from County Hospital

Charles Miller, Lemon avenue, Long Beach, who was hurt in an automobile accident Friday night, will be removed to the home of his mother, Mrs. Stella Miller, 817 North Barton street, Santa Ana, today, from the Orange County hospital, where he was taken soon after the accident. His condition is improved.

Miller was injured when an automobile, driven by J. H. Rankin, 815 Spurgeon street, Santa Ana, collided with his car on Chapman avenue, during a rain.

Miller, at the time, was beside his machine, cleaning the windshield, according to a report made by Rankin at the sheriff's office. He was crushed between his machine and the Rankin car.

Evening Party Given At Home-coming of Newly-Weds

Planned to welcome Mrs. W. H. Heard (Minnie Lois Phillips) into her husband's family, was a delightful little party given Saturday evening by the three sisters of Mr. Heard, Mrs. J. W. Allen, Mrs. Ernest Layton and Mrs. Arthur Heard at the Layton home on East Seventeenth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Heard returned quite recently from their honeymoon in San Diego and the party was the first social affair to welcome their return. Mrs. Layton had her home prettily decorated with pink roses and white ribbon garlands to give it a distinctly bridal air.

Rock offered a merry evening at the close of which, places of honor were reserved at the tables for Mr. and Mrs. Heard, and bride's cake with other appropriate refreshments, served. Place cards were dainty brides and all table appointments emphasized the bridal motif and the chosen pink and white color tints.

Mr. and Mrs. Heard were presented with an electric waffle iron by their hosts.

Ebell Section Plans Evening Card Party

An evening card party scheduled for Thursday night, will be the contribution of Ebell's fifth household economics section to the week's gaiety. Invitation to the event is general, and Ebell members and friends are assured of a delightful evening, if all plans by the hostess section materialize.

Playing will begin at 8 o'clock and tables will be in readiness for both bride and 500 enthusiasts. A very small price is being asked for the tickets and their presentation at the door will give the guests a merry evening with the possibility of winning one of the really lovely prizes, and refreshments to complete the sociability.

Mrs. Hugh Shields, section leader, has charge of the tickets while Mrs. Jesse Goodman will have the tables under her care. Mrs. Otto Haan, Mrs. Edward Walker and Mrs. Herbert Krahling will arrange for the refreshments and Mrs. Archie Herr, club curator, and Mrs. W. H. Haddon have had the selection of the prizes in charge.

ARMY MULE TOUGH
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The army mule knows how to live up to the tradition of his toughness. During recent infantry maneuvers in Panama, a heavily laden mule got lost. Forty-seven days later he was found in a 10-foot hole in the ground he had fallen, his heavy pack still on his back, and ready for action.

Novel Touch
In the other frock you see a fairly conservative style developed in very decorative unusual material, achieving this same end through the medium of color.

The printed velvet, in many shades of mauve is as soft as mole-skin and so supple in texture that it manipulates and drapes as well as georgette crepe.

So decorative is the material that no trimming is employed beyond the small groups of tucks at the back of the blouse and a tie of the velvet at the right shoulder.

The fullness of the skirt is concentrated in front and held in place by small groups of tucks. There is a frosty sheen to the material that is very lovely, and a comfortable and casual effect about the whole outfit that is unusual in a material usually treated with more formality.

Both these gowns are charming under the fur coat, and are delightful for wear at afternoon teas, matinees or any informal social functions.

SANTA ANA MAY HAVE FLOAT IN PASADENA ROSE TOURNEY, JAN. 1

Junior Chamber Considers Entry in Parade in Co-operation with DeMille

VOLGA BOATMAN IS THEME SUGGESTED

Barge Would Be Drawn by Boys' Chorus Members, Tentative Plans Reveal

Santa Ana may be represented in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses, January 1, with a float entered by the junior chamber of commerce through the co-operation of the DeMille Film corporation, illustrating the idea of the "Volga Boatman," the flower bedecked river barge to be pulled by picked members of the Santa Ana Boys' chorus.

Junior chamber of commerce officials, who have been quietly working on the plans for participation in the annual rose fete, said that a decision was expected by tonight as to whether the film company can undertake the building of the float. DeMille officials manifested a keen interest in the idea when it was suggested to them and stated that, if it were possible at all to make the arrangements, the float would be entered.

"Songs in Flowers" is to be the motif for the floats in the parade which is the outstanding feature of the big mid-winter event. Each float will interpret the title of a song. The method will be left to the imagination and originality of those who sponsor and build the floats, but, as in all past tournaments, every float must be a floral creation, and only fresh natural flowers used.

Flower for Each Community

Another innovation provides for the selection of an official flower by the community participating. Flower venders, picked from the prettiest girls in each city, will distribute flowers on the streets New Year's day, urging all spectators from Southern California communities to wear the flower of their home town.

The Santa Ana flower has not been selected, but the junior chamber officials have several suitable blooms in mind. The flower venders have not been picked.

Thus far, 28 cities and organizations have entered floats in the civic division of the tournament parade. Last year there were 70 floats in this division. The number entered so far is about twice

Ex-Residents of Philippines To Meet On Dec. 11

Former residents of the Philippine Islands, now living in various parts of Orange county, are making plans to attend the Fourth Annual Reunion and dinner of the Philippine society on Saturday evening, December 11, at 6:30 at the Masonic club, 623 South Grand avenue, Los Angeles, according to word received here from William G. Piggott, secretary of the society.

Chris O. Hagen, 512 East Eighth street, Los Angeles, is president of the society which is composed entirely of former residents of the islands. Listed on the membership list are scores of ex-government officials and business and professional men. The dinner will be followed by dancing. The invitation includes members, their families and friends, and is also extended to officers (and families) of the Army and Navy, active and retired, who served in the Philippines.

Reservations for the dinner should be made at once with the secretary, William G. Piggott, 623 South Grand avenue, Los Angeles.

FIRE HAZARDS AT CHRISTMAS MUCH GREATER

Holiday displays in stores or display windows made with Christmas greens, cotton, tissue paper, or similar materials, do not affect the validity of insurance policies here, in the opinion of Santa Ana insurance brokers.

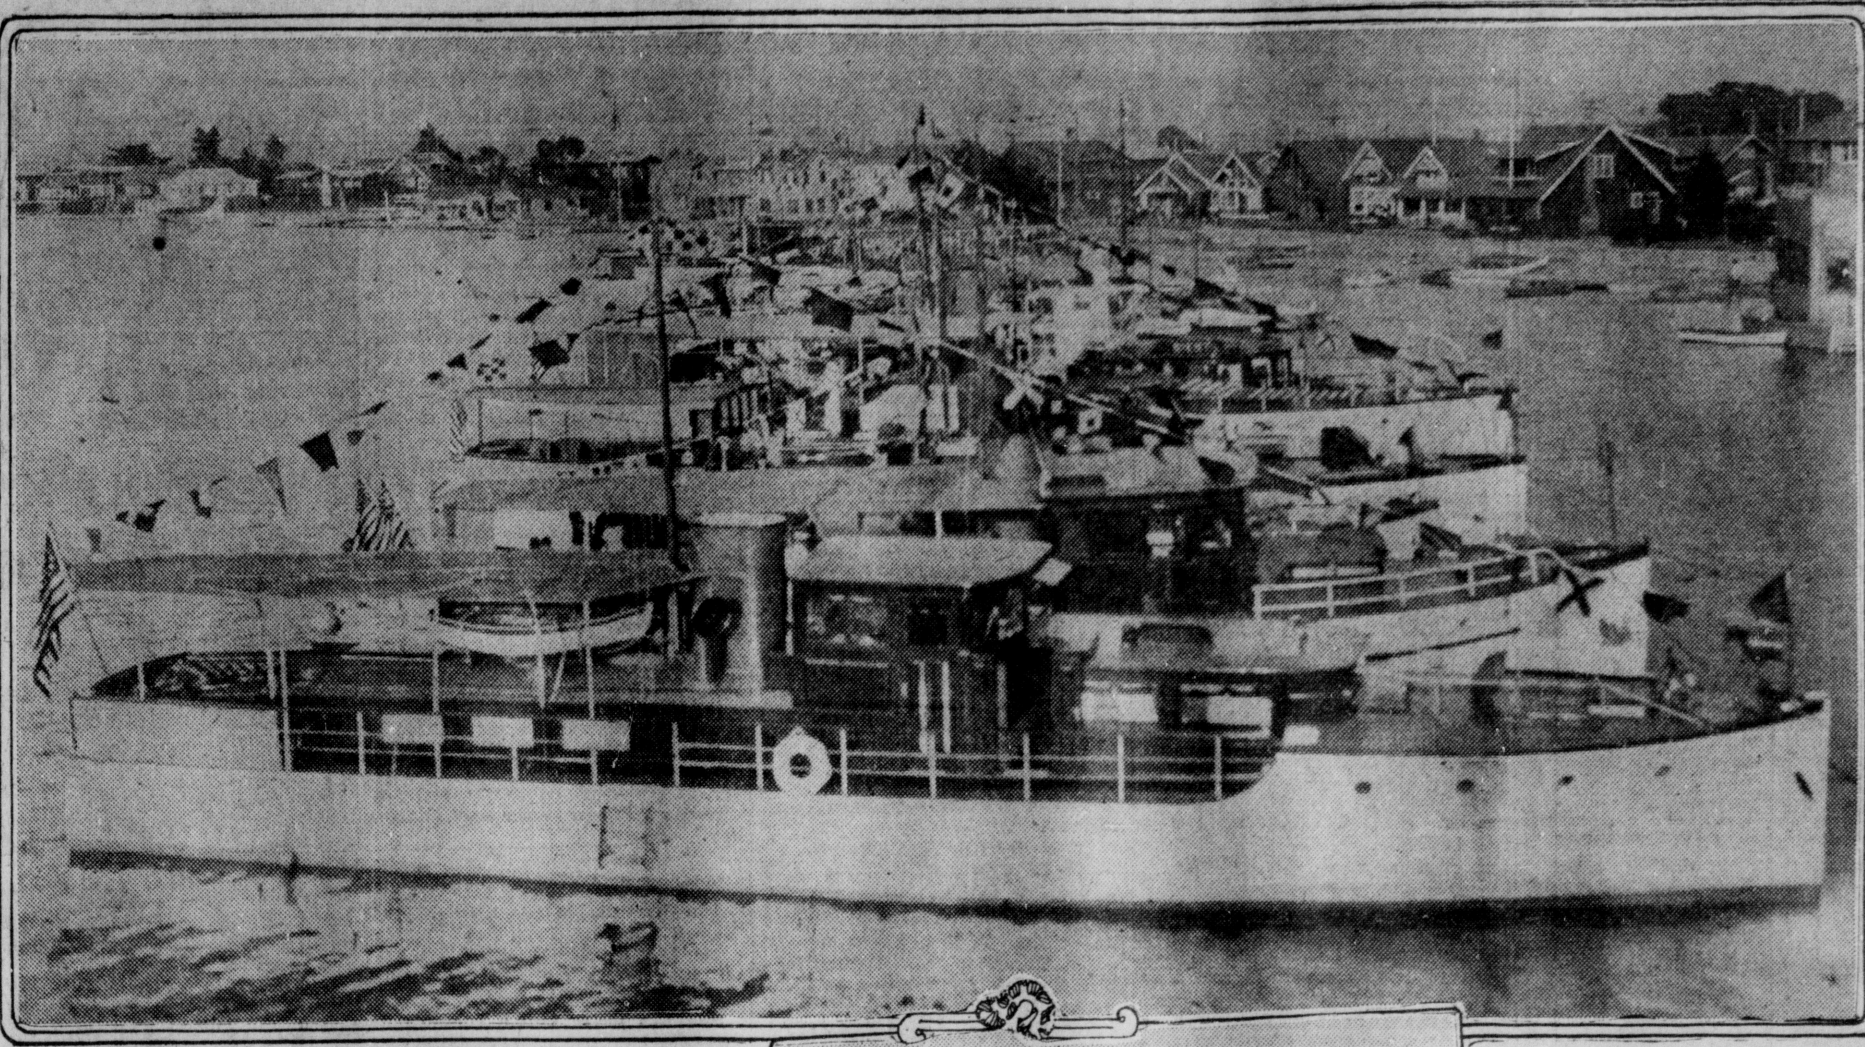

The opinion was advanced in connection with inquiries as to whether or not California policies would be affected by a recent ruling of the New York Board of Underwriters to the effect that Christmas decorations and inflammable displays in stores or windows act as a "practical prohibition," according to the standard form of fire insurance policy.

This prohibition is said to be equally applicable to churches, clubs, public buildings and private homes. The policy clause curtailing the use of special material for displays reads, "unless otherwise provided by agreement in writing here-to, this company shall not be liable for loss occurring, while the hazard is increased by any means within the control or knowledge of the insured."

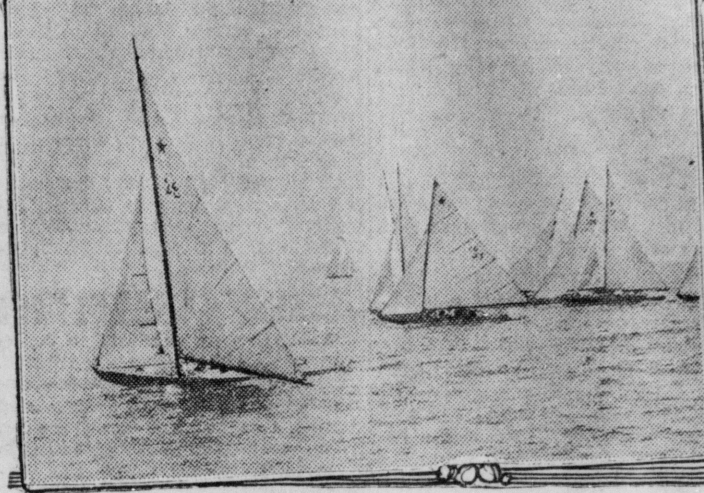

Commenting upon the action of the New York board of underwriters, C. Edwin Dessery, local insurance broker, thought that the in-

BOOSTERS SEE SUCCESS FOR BOND ISSUE IN PORT ELECTION

Proposed Establishment of Seaplane Base Expected To Aid in Bonds Passage

BAY IS FAMOUS IN SPORTING CIRCLES

Many Yachts Would Anchor In Harbor if Entrance Improvements Made

With hundreds of Orange county's wealthiest and most successful business men boosting for Orange county harbor, predictions were general here today that the special election, on December 14, at which time voters will vote on a $650,000 bond issue, would result in passage of the bonds by a large majority.

Recent developments have added much to promote the success of the bond issue. One of the biggest boosts received by the harbor in the last few weeks is the setting in motion of plans which may result in the establishment of a government air base on the bay.

There are more than 100 expensive yachts anchored in the bay now. Recent expansion in San Pedro harbor has caused yachts anchored there to be moved and owners have become dissatisfied, many of them coming to the Orange county port, seeking a location, and all of the San Pedro boat owners declare they would come to the harbor if the entrance were repaired.

Famous For Yachting

Already Newport bay is famous for its yachting and sporting activities. The bond issue to repair the harbor entrance is expected to prove an incentive for commercial expansion and for the growth of yachting and other maritime sports. With more than 40 miles of coast line available inside the bay, the harbor is expected to become a center for all aquatic sports.

Orange county's plan for the development of its harbor is attracting much attention in Los Angeles and Long Beach as being a part of the general development of this section.

There are at the present time more than seven miles of channel, from 19 to 20 feet deep, which would be made available for use if the entrance, which is about seven feet deep at low tide, were repaired. Danger of the channel's filling up has been eliminated by the diversion of the Santa Ana river from the harbor directly into the ocean.

A statement, issued by those sponsoring the harbor development program, is as follows:

Repair of Jetties
"The money to be voted will give a safe entrance to the bay. The repair of the west jetty, the building of an east jetty and the dredging of the channel entrance to a depth of 20 feet are included in the program. The opening of the harbor entrance will open many miles of channel and will foster both pleasure and commercial pursuits on the bay which will prove beneficial to all of Orange county. A death trap, which has taken

ACCIDENT TO COST A MESA TRAFFIC OFFICER CAUSES INDUSTRIAL BOARD RULING

Will the Costa Mesa citizens who contributed to a fund to be used in paying half of Frank Vaughn's salary as motorcycle patrolman at Costa Mesa have to pay a portion of Vaughn's expenses?

That is the question that is being discussed in Costa Mesa, following receipt of a letter from the industrial accident commission asking the Costa Mesa chamber of commerce to bring the matter to the attention of the persons who contributed to the fund. The letter follows:

"The facts as they appear would indicate that he (Vaughn) was employed by an aggregation of individuals, who would be individually and collectively liable for any compensation benefits to which he would be entitled. In other words, an association of individual citizens undertook to hire this man and pay him a certain portion of his wages and these individuals are in fact employers of this injured man, together with the state division of motor vehicles."

At the time that Vaughn was employed, the agreement was made that the county, out of state funds, would pay $100 per month and the

FOLDERS TELL ABOUT S. A. TO ENTIRE NATION

A new Santa Ana folder was being distributed today by the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, according to George Raymer, secretary. The folders, 11,000 in number, have been sent to various parts of the nation and Raymer has approximately 5000 more on hand. That Santa Ana will get a great deal of advertising from the folders, is the contention of Raymer.

The folders set forth the advantages of Santa Ana and Orange county in glowing terms. The history of the town, community spirit, housing and hotel facilities, climate, parks and public playgrounds, entertainments, schools, churches, sports, industries, building activities, agricultural pur-

PYRAMIDS IDEA AT WALKER THEATRE

Cast of 50 Presents Novel
Dancing Presentation
At Local Theater

By REVIEWER

By far the most elaborate stage production that has been seen at the West Coast-Walker theater in a long time is the Fanchon and Marco Pyramids "idea," which opened Sunday for three days' engagement.

With more than 50 persons in the presentation, which, as the name implies, carries a distinctively Egyptian atmosphere, the various numbers are characterized by comely girls, sprightly dancing, dazzling, unusual and sometimes daring costumes, and enchanting music, in a brilliant combination that makes the act most spectacular. In fact, it may be said to resemble, to a marked degree, a Ziegfeld or a George White production.

Ancient Egyptian melodies are reconstructed in the "idea," in sharp contrast to modern music, to which a portion of the program is devoted.
Featured in the presentation are Warren Proctor, lyric tenor, and Angelo Armento, Arabian tumbler.
The new "Black Bottom" dance is done in lively style by the ensemble.

A huge pyramid, extending the full width of the stage, forms the background and houses three orchestras in a unique triple-deck arrangement. After rendering numerous selections separately, the orchestras play simultaneously in the finale.

By reason of the size of the pyramid and the smallness of the stage, the large cast, cramped for space, at times appears to operate under a handicap.

The photoplay, "Millionaires," is a comedy in which a Hebrew family in the New York Ghetto suddenly becomes wealthy through oil. An effort by the newly-rich to climb the social ladder develops many amusing situations. A Mutt and Jeff cartoon and a Mack Sennett comedy complete the bill.

MURPHY'S COMEDIANS

"Scrambled Wives," a farce comedy in three acts and with two different stage settings, opened last night at Murphy's theater at Orana.
The play has for a plot a matrimonial mixup that is a scream, and registered favorably with the audience, it being similar to "Fair and Warmer," "Twin Beds," and
"The Girl in the Limousine" but without the objectionable scenes that are usually relied on for laughs in farce comedies.

"Scrambled Wives," as played by Murphy's Comedians is very well cast, and the scenery and lighting effects are effective.

Contractors Find Many Difficulties In Soviet Dealing

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—Various German undertakings in Soviet Russia are understood to be making little progress, owing to the difficulty of dealing with the Soviet authorities.
The difficulties with which the Siemens company has to contend in carrying out its contract for the construction of an electric underground railway in Moscow are reported to be so great that the American interests, which are financing the undertaking have expressed the desire to obtain release from the contract even at a loss, a desire which at the stage now reached, appears to have little chance of being gratified.

Mrs. Frances Hunt Beeson, director of music in the Santa Ana schools, is the leader of the chorus, which is sponsored by the Junior chamber. Mrs. Beeson said: "The music department of the city schools is very much interested in the Boys' chorus. Miss Edith Cornell, from Julia C. Lathrop junior high school, Miss Esther Jean Davis, from Frances E. Willard junior high school, Misses Myrtle Martin and Abbie Harvey, from the high school, Mrs. Nellie Hughes, from Edison school, Miss Bernice Yeo, from Franklin, Pauline Zolman, from Jefferson, Miss Marie Siebert, from John Muir, Maxine Parslow, from Lincoln, Elizabeth McIntire, from McKinley, Elizabeth Walker, from Roosevelt, and Mrs. Mary Wolf, from Spurgeon, are giving their co-operation toward making it a success.

"The boys are very much interested. We know we haven't all the good voices among the boys by any means, and wish we might have more in the chorus, but we have more as can be conveniently handled in one group at this time. We had to keep a balance of parts in mind, too."

According to Raymer, 2000 of the booklets have been sent to the Rock Island railroad, 750 to the Rock Island railroad, 750 to the Panhandle railroad, 2000 to the Los Angeles chamber of commerce, 2000 to the Chicago railroad lines, 500 to the Southern Pacific railroad, 500 to the New York Central railroad, 500 to the Pennsylvania railroad lines, and 1500 to the automobile tourist bureaus. The booklets will be in practically every railroad station throughout the east and middle west and are expected to influence hundreds of people who are starting the trek westward, to come to Orange county.

FINDS JAWBONE

MILES CITY, Mont., Nov. 29.—Emil Anderson, rancher, is wondering whether his land was formerly occupied by unusually windy political speakers or by prehistoric monsters. He has just found a jaw bone three feet long embedded in the bank of a river on his place.

WOMAN TELLS REASONS WHY MOVIES APPEAL

From a contest shared in by more than 700,000 persons the following prize winning short essay was selected. It was written by Mrs. Pearl Hinchshaw, of Windfall, Ill., to the title, "Why I Like the Movies."

Mrs. Hinchshaw is the mother of three children and could be described as a type of American woman that gives strength and structure to the nation. Her offerings, which won for herself and her husband a trip around the world, is as follows:

"When primitive man sought self-expression he left his life's story on the cliffs and in the rock-hewn caves, by means of pictures. Pictures have formed the foundation of languages of all races and down through the ages nations have thus recorded their thoughts, deeds and customs."

"Man's love for action and desire to visualize his emotions, produced the drama, but it remained for the cinema to bring it within the reach of all. Born with an insatiable thirst for travel, the motion picture brings before me those places of beauty and historical interest which I have longed to visit; the barren wastes of the frozen north, the languorous, exotic beauty of the tropics, the mystery and witchery of the Orient, storied ruins and inaccessible fastnesses."

"Great characters who have swayed the destinies of nations reappear before me and I live in ages past, experiencing their glorious triumphs and ignominious defeats. Artists of the silver screen interpret for me both the modern fiction and the great masterpieces. I re-live their lives and through the transference of personality I am taught the profound lessons of life."

"Motion pictures reproduce accurately the great crises in the world's development and impress me with the sacrifice made for my civic and religious liberty. They inform me of the latest news, the freshest thought, the great industrial projects and, through them, I keep in step in the march of the world's events."

"The movies rest, refresh and entertain men. The cares of the day are forgotten and the trials of tomorrow seem less inevitable as I pity the fallen, admire the noble, worship at beauty's shrine, weep with the unfortunate and laugh at the jester. They unlock the treasure house of romance and keep its sacred fire burning."

"The bay is divided into two parts, the lower bay covering about 1350 acres and the upper bay covering about 1500 acres. The upper bay is at right angles to the lower bay and extends inland about four miles, coming to within a few miles of Santa Ana and Tustin."

"In an air line, the bay is about 35 miles from Los Angeles and over the highways, by way of Fullerton, is approximately 40 miles from Los Angeles."

YES, MR. MOORE! WE DO NOT LIKE YOUR NEW FANGLED TIE FOOTBALL PLAYOFF "SYSTEM"

By GRIDDER

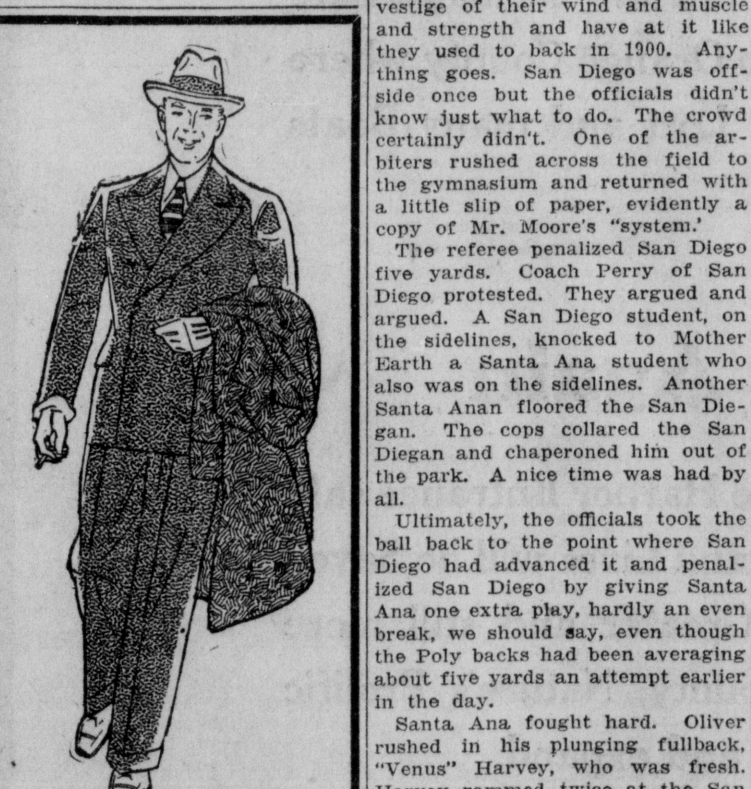

Now that we have seen in operation Mr. Harry J. Moore's "system" of settling tied football games we are more of the opinion than ever that the plan is unfair, impracticable, ridiculous and should be laughed off the Coast Preparatory league's record books. If San Diego can derive any satisfaction from its "Moore-all" victory over Santa Ana here Saturday they are welcome to it.

HERB SALVESON TOO GOOD FOR ORANGE. 6 TO 1

Herb Salveson completed his thirty-first inning of shut-out pitching in the Orange County Harbor League at Huntington Beach yesterday while his team, the Republic Supply company, was annexing its tenth victory in a row from the Orange Merchants by a score of 6 to 1.

Salveson had Charley Bustillos' boys beaten so he gave away the slab duties to Joe Huarte in the ninth and Orange scored its only run on passes to Maldonado and A. Munoz and an out by Bracamontes. The Republic Supplies got a pair in the first. Dietzel scoring Callahan and Beeson with a single. Joe Rodgers' league-leaders piled up three more in the fifth. Salveson got a life on F. Maldonado's error. Callahan singled and Beeson doubled scoring both runners. Rodgers' single brought Beeson around.

Dietzel's circus catch of Romero's liner in the eighth was the fielding feature.

NOTRE DAME DEFEAT LEAVES NATIONAL FOOTBALL CROWN BETWEEN STANFORD, ALABAMA

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Football teams the country over today present a peculiar problem as far as picking a national champion is concerned. After the Navy's 21 to 21 tie with the Army and Carnegie Tech's 19 to 0 defeat of Notre Dame Saturday, the national champion, as far as the winning and losing of games is concerned, seems to be either Stanford or Alabama.

But in the opinion of many, neither of these teams has played a schedule that could give it an undisputed championship. True, one of them will finish the season undefeated, unless they should happen to tie in their Tournament of Roses game.

The one team that could have been given an undisputed national championship was Notre Dame. Unfortunately for the dopesters, however, Carnegie Tech decided to do something Saturday that nobody thought it could do. That something was its 19 to 0 plastering of Knute Rockne's team.

Followers of the Irish in this part of the country still believe that Notre Dame is the best in the country. They point out that had Knute Rockne gone east with his team and been there to direct its destinies there probably would have been a different story to tell.

Be that as it may, Notre Dame was defeated and a defeated team can't rank as national champion.

A fumble which allowed an Army man to swoop down, pick up the ball after his own team had punted and race for a touchdown, prevented the Navy from entering a claim for the championship. A claim by a team that had played a schedule of the Navy kind seems to be as justifiable as either of the kind that is certain to be presented by Stanford or Alabama.

The situation at present seems to give the mythical championship to either Alabama or Stanford, provided one of them wins the Tournament of Roses game.

Trojans Work for Tilt with Rockne Irish

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—With Pacific Coast competition now in the background and second place in the hands of the Southern California gridgers, Coach Howard Jones is driving his men this week toward the most-talked-of grid clash of the season—the Notre Dame-Trojan clash here next Saturday.

Despite the one-point defeat which Southern California suffered at the hands of Stanford a month ago, the coming battle with the Indiana Irish has assumed the proportions of a national championship affair. The Trojan represent the strength of the Pacific Coast; on touchdowns, yards gained, and defense Stanford and Southern California might be said to be on an even basis.

Notre Dame, despite its unexpected upset by Carnegie Tech Saturday, has defeated the best of the middle west and the strength of the east. If Southern California can turn back the invading Rockne men and Stanford trounces Alabama—the best of the south—the Pacific Coast will have a clear claim to the nation's title.

Southern California and Stanford should stack up virtually the same against either Notre Dame or Alabama. In other words a Trojan victory over Notre Dame will be counted as a Stanford victory and a Cardinal win over the Crimson Tide can be measured as a Southern California triumph. Honors will be split either way.

Morton Kaer, one of the greatest ballplayers on the Coast, was held from the Idaho and Montana games by a leg injury to heal. He will be in the starting line up against Notre Dame.

Morley Drury, who has been on the hospital roll since October 9, may possibly play a part of the Irish fray although his appearance in the line-up that day is doubtful. Al Behrendt, veteran end, who sustained a bad ankle injury, is definitely out of the final game of his career.

Olympic Club Is Loser in Hawaii

HONOLULU, Nov. 29.—The Honolulu town team defeated the San Francisco Olympic club football squad 20 to 12 yesterday.

The Olympics were leading 9 to 6 at half time but the territorial came back in the last half to score two touchdowns.

THEY'RE IN AGAIN

VISALIA, Nov. 29.—Bakersfield high school's football team will meet Visalia high here Saturday for the interscholastic championship of Central California. Bakersfield defeated Lemore Saturday, 60 to 0.

Figures Show Santa Ana Is Better Team

First Quarter

Captain Millen won the toss and chose to defend the north goal and to receive. Moeller kicked off to Selway who returned the ball to the Poly 32-yard stripe. Blakeney made a yard at center but the ball was taken back and Santa Ana penalized five yards. Selway attempted a flat pass to Harvey but Donohue intercepted it on his 23-yard line and ran unopposed to a touchdown. Donohue kicked goal. Score: Santa Diego 7, Santa Ana 0.

Blakeney kicked off for Santa Ana to Butler who returned a yard to the San Diego 42-yard line. Ritchey failed to gain over his left tackle. Donohue fumbled but recovered for no gain. Donohue's pass was snatched by Norton. Donohue kicked to the Santa Ana 33-yard line, Green "killing" the ball.

Norton ran out of bounds without gain. Blakeney made nine yards off tackle. Blakeney made three and a first down at midfield. Koral went over left tackle on a reverse for seven and Blakeney went over right guard for five more and a first down on the San Diego 33-yard mark. Selway ran out of bounds without gain but the ball was taken back and San Diego penalized five yards. Campbell replaced Hardy for Santa Diego. Blakeney made three over right tackle. Blakeney made one at the same place but the ball was taken back and San Diego again penalized 5 yards, giving Poly a first down on the 24-yard line.

Moeller kicked off to Selway who returned to the Santa Ana 39-yard line. Blakeney made a yard at center. On a triple pass around the line Selway got away around his right end for 40 yards, being thrown on the San Diego 39-yard line. The play completely fooled the San Diego team and Selway nearly got away to a touchdown, being tackled from behind. Haulman replaced Butler and West-

REDSHIRTS NOW FAVORITES FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

By CHARLES CRAWFORD

A case of too much Hatfield and a vastly improved Indian team spelled defeat for the championship aspirations of the Huntington Beach high school football team in the second round of a triple tie playoff, at Fullerton Saturday afternoon. Fullerton won, 16 to 6. Fullerton is now the favorite to cop the county championship. The deciding game of the playoff will be played Friday between Anaheim and Fullerton, at Fullerton.

A powerful, driving, flashy eleven took the field against the fast beach city aggregation. Coach Stewart ("Shorty") Smith turned the tables on Harry Sheue, Fullerton decisively outplaying the Oilers.

Hatfield, brilliant left halfback of the Redshirt eleven was the shining light of the game. Time after time the speedy and stocky ace took the ball, twisted, turned and dodged through the entire Huntington Beach team for substantial gains. Hatfield was the only man on the field who could keep his feet on the ground. The speedy Huntington Beach backs were either stopped before they could get started or slipped on the semi-muddy field.

Barry's Toe Saves H. B.

During the first half both teams were unable to score. Huntington Beach, through the excellent teamwork of Nelson Barry kept the ball in Fullerton territory.

The Indians' first touchdown came about the middle of the third quarter. With the wind against them, Huntington Beach lost on an exchange of punts which placed the ball in midfield and in Fullerton's possession. Adams and Hatfield, with excellent interference carried the ball to the Oilers' 10-yard line from where Hatfield took it over in three attempts. Fullerton threatened to score again following several long end runs by Hatfield before the quarter closed.

The second Fullerton score came soon after the opening of the final period. With the ball on the Huntington Beach 8-yard line, Fullerton was unable to gain, and Davis, tackle, dropped back and annexed three points with a pretty place kick.

Curtis Plunges Over

Fullerton's second touchdown and final score came as the direct result of a fumbled punt by Barry, Huntington Beach quarterback. Fullerton recovered the ball on the Oilers' 11-yard line and E. Curtis, fullback, took the ball over. Huntington Beach was offside on the try for goal and the extra point was allowed although the kick was blocked.

A desperate last minute rally resulted in the Huntington Beach score and came near scoring another touchdown near the end of the game. Barry, safety man for the beach city lads got away on a punt and carried the ball far into Fullerton territory. On the next play a pass over the goal line to Wilmarth gave Huntington Beach six points. Barry failed to convert. Coach Sheue's boys took the ball down the field on passes again but Hatfield intercepted one of the heaves as the game ended.

ELEVENTS TIED. 7-7. AT CLOSE OF 'BIG GAME'

Visitors Then Advance Six Inches Into Santa Ana's Territory, Get Victory

Santa Ana's football season came to a happy ending just at dusk Saturday afternoon as the whistle raised its piping note, closing the annual "big game" with San Diego high school in a 7 to 7 stand-off. And then they introduced a heart-breaking monotony called the tie-playoff and San Diego was declared the winner, 9 to 7, because it advanced the ball a matter of some six muddy inches into Santa Ana territory after 10 alternate plays.

Mention tie-playoff to loyal Santa Anans today and you'll get thrown for a 10-yard loss to remember your rudeness.

By every law of man and if any team ever deserved victory, Santa Ana should have won that ball game. Coach "Tex" Oliver's henchmen decisively outplayed the invaders from the Hilltop in every phase of the competition. The great San Diego attack, which was to have crushed Santa Ana as a

Make 15 First Downs

Santa Ana made 15 first downs and San Diego made three—and yet Santa Ana lost. Santa Ana made 271 yards on running plays and forward passes and San Diego made 71—and Santa Ana lost.

One of those dangerous flat passes out to the side that make your heart drop and your blood curdle gave San Diego its only touchdown. It was a Santa Ana forward pass (that never got anywhere near its destination because young Mr. Donohue, a doughty hammer crushes a walnut, was stopped cold. The highly vaunted San Diego defense, which was to have pulverized "Tex" Oliver's trickery, has never yet fathomed the clever formations of the young Texan.

Field Is Wet, Slippery

The field was wet and muddy from Friday's rainfall and the ball slipped around so in the fingers of the players that they had to fight it like rookie third basemen. It was the condition of the home team's own greensward that really cost Santa Ana the game by anywhere from two to four touchdowns. Four times the locals smashed their way through or between or around the bulky invaders until they were within paper-wad shooting distance of touchdowns only to fumble with victory as good as "in."

Jack Blakeney, a converted south-paw end, playing his first full meat out of the San Diego defense and when he wasn't hammering away at some of the visiting giants, Coach Oliver's reverses, fake reverses, end-arounds, double and triple passes and whatnot, with Selway or Koral or Harvey or Cooke lugging the leather, were working with such schooled perfection that John Perry's team was completely bewildered and wondering where—and when—the next stroke of lightning would hit. No Santa Ana team has ever played so smart, craftier, more able football and then, for all its pains, been forced to accept defeat.

POLY LOSES TO SAN DIEGO IN PLAYOFF, 9-7

San Diego goal-line on one of his numerous wanderlusts through the line before he fumbled. The blade immediately was buried 'neath a pile of squirming young gentlemen and when they hauled them off, one by one, San Diego had the thing a couple of inches from its last chalk-line.

Blakeney was not the only Santa Ana to tumble with a touch-down in sight. Selway did and Prior did but neither they nor Blakeney were to blame in view of the condition of the turf and the necessity for accurate handling of the sphere on the intricate Poly reverse and pass plays. It was just too bad that Santa Ana had to oppose its old enemy on a wet field and with a slippery football.

San Diego didn't fool the ball as often because it had possession of the oval only at rare intervals. John Casey, Santa Ana guard, made Poly's touchdown. John Gallagher, the other local guard, broke through San Diego's line in the second quarter and blocked Donohue's punts. The ball shot straight up in the air. When it came down, "Red" Cooke, an end, and Casey both panned for it. Cooke nailed it, handed it to his teammate and the two of them rambled a little more than 20 yards to a touchdown.

Ehrhorn, Blakeney Star Blakeney and Charles Ehrhorn, the tall Santa Ana tackle, were the outstanding players of the day. Blakeney's speed, elusiveness and drive augurs well for the Poly eleven next year for Jack has another year of competition in front of him. Ehrhorn played in the San Diego backfield about half of the time, seeming to take special delight in sneering Bert Ritchey every time the flashy colored back attempted a sortie around his side of the line. Ehrhorn has played well all season but never did he look as good as Saturday. Chet Siegel, veteran center; "Bomo" Koral, the scrappy little halfback, and Francis Harvey, end, also came into the stardom hall in this encounter.

A play-by-play account of the contest is given in another column. The lineup:

WATER SYSTEM TO BE PLACED IN CEMETERY

With funds now available, the trustees of the Santa Ana Cemetery district today were completing plans for the first step in the installation of a complete water system for the old Santa Ana cemetery, according to V. W. Whitson, one of the trustees. Other trustees are James Utt, of Tustin, and D. R. Gardner, of Orange.

Whitson said that the trustees would meet at his office Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, when it was probable definite decision would be made as to when the work of installing the system would start. At the same meeting, the trustees expect to receive legal advice as to their limitations in dispensing the fund for the care of other old cemeteries in the district. The board is undecided as to whether it can include in its operations the care of privately-owned sections in cemeteries. The Odd Fellows' plot in the old cemetery is one case at issue.

$11,000 Fund Available

The tax levy of 2 mills on the dollar will provide a fund of approximately $11,000 this year, and this will be ample to take care of the expense of the new water system, to clean up the cemetery this fall, and to take care of the cemeteries at El Toro and El Modena.

Plans of the trustees contemplate connection with the Tustin water company for the water supply. Main lines will be installed in all streets of the Santa Ana cemetery, and laterals will be run down each alley. Under this plan, Whitson said, taps would be available whereby, with a 50-foot hose, every lot in the burial ground could be watered.

He said that for the first year or two private owners would be expected to take care of their own lots, so far as planting and care of lawns is concerned. Later, he said, it is possible the trustees will assume full responsibility for the care of all lots. With the water system installed and with other improvements made, the annual tax fund will be available for the upkeep of the "silent city."

Will Hire Superintendent
The distributing system will not be installed under contract. It is the intention of the trustees to employ a superintendent, and the latter will superintend the installation.

Whitson said that response to a questionnaire, sent to lot owners to ascertain their sentiment as to whether retaining walls and fences should be eliminated, had revealed such opposition to the proposal that the trustees had decided to let the cemetery remain as it is at the present time.

It was the opinion of the members of the board that the beauty of the burial grounds could be enhanced by removal of retaining walls and fences.

BILLY EVANS

WHICH IS SAFER?
Which is the safer way to try to score a point after touchdown, the drop or place kick?

Several years ago that thought came to me and I put the question to Jim Thorpe, one of the best kickers the game has ever known.

"In trying for a field goal, two men have a better chance to succeed than one," was Thorpe's reply. Asked to further explain, he continued:

"Kicking a stationary ball, properly helped, is certain to produce more accurate results than kicking a ball that is dropped to the ground with a chance that it may bound badly."

"I regard the place kick as almost two to one safer than the drop kick in attempting a goal from field."

SAYS JIM THORPE

Since getting the low-down on the matter of drop and placekicks from so eminent an authority as Jim Thorpe, I have kept a close tab on results in games that I have seen.

My figures show the place kick to be a far more efficient method of trying to score a point after touchdown, or going after three points. While the odds are not two to one, they are mighty close to it.

Recently in two very important Big Ten games I had the opportunity to appreciate the difference between the two methods.

CONCRETE EXAMPLES

When Myers Clark of Ohio State had the task of evening the count between Michigan and State put up to him, he failed miserably with his drop kick effort. Benny Friedman of Michigan had made his two goals from placement.

A week later, with Minnesota leading Michigan, 6-0 and only a few minutes to play, Oosterbaan recovered a fumble, ran for a touchdown and tied the score.

With a Big Ten title hanging on Friedman's effort to score the extra point on a goal from placement, the Michigan captain came through with a perfect kick.

LINE PLAYS PART

I have heard the drop and place kick debate discussed by a number of players noted for their ability as experts, and the contention made by most of them is that the line has much to do with any successful attempt at field goal whether it is from placement or a drop.

It is impossible to get accuracy on any kind of a kick that is hurried. In such cases it is largely a matter of trying to get the ball away without being blocked and trusting to luck.

As in many other things, particularly in the advancing of the ball, the line never gets the proper credit, the real usually being slipped to the kicker or ball carrier.

OLD RECORDS STAND

During the past few years there has been a revival of the goal from field play as a scoring weapon. For a time the forward pass had crowded out its real value.

Any number of important games this fall have been decided by a goal from the field. Friedman of Michigan in the west and Hamilton of the Navy in the east have used the play to great advantage.

However, none of the modern kickers has come close to the collegiate performances of Walter Eckersall and Charley Brickley.

Back in 1905, Eckersall scored five times against Illinois on drop kicks. The following season he repeated the feat against Nebraska. In 1913 Charley Brickley made five field goals for Harvard against Yale.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels

Give "California Fig Syrup" if cross, bilious or feverish

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look! Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the constipated poisons, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mother can rest easy after giving this harmless, "fruitly laxative" because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Adv.

WEIGHED ONLY 98 POUNDS

Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—"After having my first baby, I lost weight, no matter what I did. Then a doctor told me I would be better if I had another baby, which I did. But I got worse, was always sickly and went down to 98 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles, I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."—Mrs. M. RIENINGER, 10004 Nelson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

If some good fairy should appear, and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose? Wealth? It's a transient thing that brings its own cares. Happiness? It's an elusive thing which we keep by giving away. Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you better health.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Roger Williams

Sketches by Redner
Synopsis by Braucher

The punishment of the Pequots by the Massachusetts men inflamed the Indians' hatred. The settlements became alarmed. It was reported the Pequots were trying to ally with the Narragansetts. The magistrates of Massachusetts appealed to Roger Williams to save them, knowing the Indians trusted him.

Roger Williams replied immediately that he would. He set out alone in a canoe to appeal to the Narragansetts.

Pequot ambassadors were negotiating with the Narragansetts when Williams arrived on his dangerous mission.

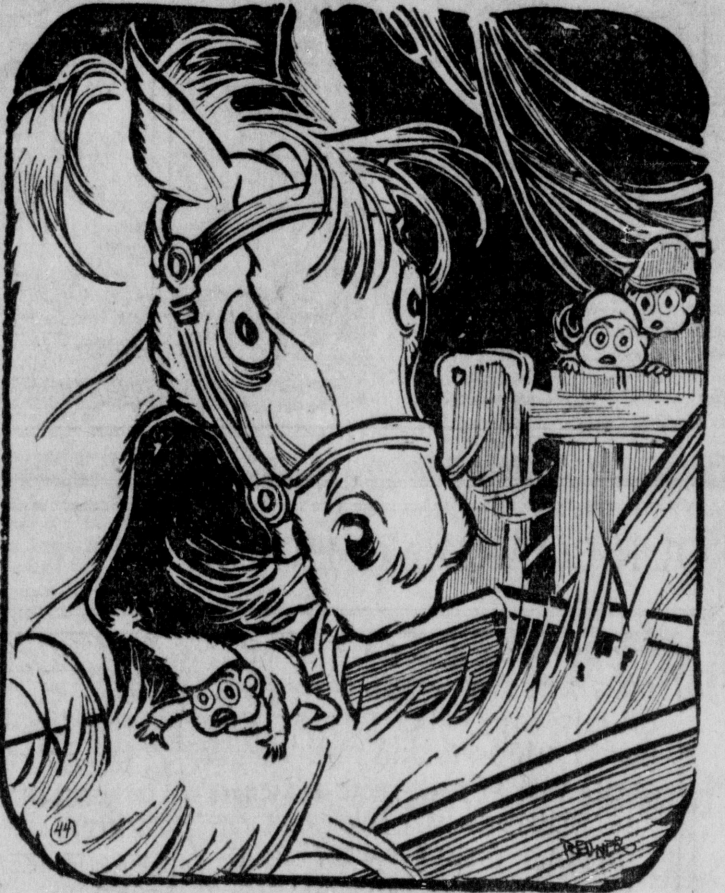

For three days he pleaded with the sachems of the Narragansetts not to ally with the bloody Pequots. So great was the Narragansetts' faith in the man that he obtained assurance that the Narragansetts not only would not join the Pequots but would ally with the colonists against them. (Continued.)

THE TINYMITES

BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

It wasn't but a day or so till Clowdy said, "I guess I'll go away up in that hay chute, where the apples all are stored." He clamored up the steps with care, and very shortly he was there. The other Tinsies watched him. That's the reason why they roared.

Now Clowdy was a clumsy clown who, when he ran, would tumble down, but, even so, he always reached the place where he was going. He eyed the apples in the chute so he could pick the one to suit. He rolled his eyes and smacked his lips. His appetite was growing.

"I'll hop down in the chute," said he, "where I can look more carefully." And, with one jump he landed in the apples, ripe and red. Just then a clatter on the floor gave poor Clowdy quite a scare once more. He peered out over the hay chute and he saw a horse's head.

The other Tinsies ran away to hide up in the straw and hay. The horse came slowly nearer. Then its mouth was opened wide. Was Clowdy scared? Oh, very much! Said he, "I guess that I'm in Dutch." Behind the largest apples then, he quickly tried to hide.

The horse had smelled the apples sweet and thought, here's where I have a treat. Then something quickly happened that made poor wee Clowdy beg, "Oh let me out," he loudly cried, "of your big mouth. I'm near inside." The horse, in eating apples, had grabbed hold of Clowdy's feet.

The other Tinsies, heard him shout, and came to try and help him out. They pulled the horse's tail until they made him rock with laughter. Wee Clowdy dropped down to the floor, got up and shouted, "Never more! I'll keep away from hay chutes and from horses ever after."

The horse ate all the apples up, and, later on, when time to sup, the Tinsies found nothing but the

The WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Summer

Queen Mary of All the Britains was never bored in her life, she boasts. A natural reaction might be for one to inquire why a queen should be bored, what with all the jewels she wants to wear, all the pretty clothes she wants, all the kowtowing she wants, all the power she wants.

On the other hand, I believe a queen has even more right to be bored than lesser mortals, and that if she can truthfully say she never has been, the more should Mary Smith of Market Street get a "so fed up" with getting three meals a day, marketing, washing dishes, feeding the baby, and hemming new curtains, get something out of life save boredom!

Why is the French woman the best-dressed woman in the world, if she is? Here's one answer to that troubling query. "In France, well-dressed women adopt one style alone, have it repeated in colors, do not mind that same style on others, and repeat a becoming mode in year-round materials."

My plump little neighbor, Mrs. Greer, is the best-dressed woman I know. She has discovered that gray brings out the blue of her eyes and the shine of her hair, and that a surplus front with a dab of soft lace mellows her face, slenderizes her lines, and is the best thing in the world for her.

Winter and summer Mrs. Greer wears her gray—gray voile, gray crepe de chine, gray broadcloth, with touches of blue and wistaria and jade and accessories to match. She never tires of it, for it can be given variety in myriad ways, and she knows that she looks her very best!

Another rich woman has been quoted in her will "to leave for working girls." This country is filled with "homes for working girls"—stiff red brick institutional buildings with a stiff-necked matron, taploca on Sunday, and 100 rooms with uniform gray enamel cot, cheap bureau, one rocker, and desk-table.

For their privilege of living in "a working girl's home," the girl pays from $10 to $15 a week, or about as much as she would pay to live in a clean, respectable, and well-serviced hotel room. Funny, that this country lent ridden with "homes for working boys." The truth is that even today when the wage-earning capacity of women is fully that of men, Lady Bountiful won't relinquish their traditional role of helping the down-trodden female, if they are

The others followed close behind. The soot and dirt they didn't mind, because the smudgy coal slide made a very thrilling track. Then Scouty shouted loud, "Oh, dear, I guess we'd better hide down here. It's safer in the cellar, 'cause the coal man's coming back."

Queer Quirks of - NATURE -

HIS RED HEAD IS ANCIENT LEGEND

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n.

Nearly all woodpeckers have some red on the head, at least a small spot. Fable says this is a drop of blood which gushed from a wound caused by the blow of a wand suffered at the hand of some ancient goddess as a punishment for a breach of conduct.

The woodpecker has figured widely in the legends of ancient peoples. He summons the thunder; he blazes a path for the wandering hunter; he reveals the secret place of hidden treasures.

Well Regarded

In our own days, the woodpecker is well thought of by the forester and the horticulturist. Usually resident, he spends the year in the never-ending search and discovery of insects which injure our forests.

It is well to leave here and there a decayed limb, for he loves to fashion the cavity in which his brood shall be raised, and while all this is going on, the family lives on the borer which are endangering the very lives of the otherwise healthy denizens of the forest and orchard.

One species loves nothing so much as ants, and for all we know stand between us and yearly plagues of these prolific insects.

The Wrong Tree

All these good offices are forgotten, however, if by any chance our friend the woodpecker hews out his nursery in a telegraph pole, for he loves to survey the world from the summit of such ideal watch-towers.

Really the woodpeckers are all well paid in juicy dividends.

You "little home bodies," as the sob writers love to call you, passing a whiff of the banana oil the while, may have noticed a recent ad of a woman's magazine. The ad pictures a smartly appointed dinner table about which sit smartly-clad men and women. There is one woman, vivacious, attractive. Every eye is riveted upon her. The ad asks, "Do YOU Lead or Follow Other Women?" The inference is that if you would be attractive, read this magazine.

I wonder!

I wonder how many women have as their goal this social adulation! Childless women, selfish women, petty women, for the most part. But the great mass of women ask nothing more out of life than to be leader in their own little homes, over simple supper tables where neither the "sterlingest" silver or finest napery abound, but where "mama" is as necessary as the salt and pepper.

PARISIAN WRAPS

Gift fur and colored feathers are some of the novelties introduced on French evening wraps.

Red-Headed Woodpeckers

most as important as the words which slip noiselessly along the wires, for they shall bring joy to human hearts when men no longer stretch wires or poles.

So let us be tolerant. The woodpecker has ministered greatly to our aesthetic and material natures, and deserves to live long on the earth.

STUBBORNNESS IN MARRIAGE

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

A judge who had granted 375 divorces in one week remarked, "I wish there was another word for 'incompatibility.'"

"Men and women who can't get along seem to think there is something unusual and rather fine in their make-up when the word 'incompatibility' is tacked on to them. I believe that incompatibility is just plain stubbornness in nine cases out of eleven, and cursed stubbornness at that."

"It's a great thing for any man or any woman to be able to put him or herself into the other's place and try to see things from another angle. It is foolish for two people to take a stand on opposite sides of a house and shout that it looks thus and so, and no other way but thus and so."

"As foolish," went on the judge, "as the four blind beggars who described an elephant. One put out his hand and said, 'It's a wall.' 'No,' said another touching the tail, 'It's a rope.' 'Wrong!' cried a third who had explored a leg, 'It's a tree!' while the fourth, you may well guess, declared that an elephant was nothing but a snake, as he had grasped its trunk."

"Breadth of view is a great thing! And narrowness of view a foolish thing."

"There is one case I have in mind where a divorce was averted by the man's ability and bigness and willingness to concede a point."

"He had married a girl younger than himself and then after marriage decided to spend his old age in the country."

"His wife spent four unhappy years there. Then she took her child and left."

"The fault is probably with me," she acknowledged. "But I hate the country. I hate country life, and the constant effort. It brings out every bad trait that I have. I can't go on."

"The man considered. 'Very well,' he said. 'It isn't fair for me to try to make another person over. I am sure my wife cares for me, but love dies under constant irritation. I do not dislike the city. I can get along quite happily there. I'll go back.' And he did."

"A happier couple you can't find today."

BUSINESS

Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce Bulletin

The most important business in the world is agriculture. One-half the people in the world live by cultivating the soil. Food is the prime need. Next comes transportation, because a thing has to be at a certain place at a certain time, in order for it to possess value. Famine has been, in the world's history, a common thing, all for lack of transportation. Next is manufacturing, which is the combination of raw products in useful form. Next is the distribution. And the fifth, most important factor in business is advertising, which is simply announcing to the world, in an effective way, where you are, who you are and what you have to offer in the way of human service or commodity.

Advertising is a legitimate and ethical proposition. Life is too short for you to hide yourself away and let the world hunt you out. We need help to live, but we can die without assistance. Death is merely succumbing to inertia. When the law of gravity gets the better of you, you are a dead one. Death is no problem, but life is a great and important one. The only way an individual can help himself is to work for the good of the hive. The world is being redeemed by the science of business. Business is founded on reciprocity and co-operation. Any other plan spells bankruptcy. The successful business has a heart-soul. Business is eminently a divine calling. We do not differentiate it from any other calling, no matter how noble, how beautiful, how altruistic.

Elbert Hubbard, here quoted, is gone, but his ideas are still marching on. They are as applicable to Santa Ana as to the world. Easily one-half of Santa Ana's people are dependent upon agriculture and horticulture. Transportation in the city's industrial development is a vital necessity.

Industrially, Santa Ana is only a child in swaddling clothes. To develop this particular phase of the city's activity, which will stabilize her prosperity—advertising is of paramount importance. This is shown by a series of full page industrial advertisements now appearing each week in the Santa Ana Register. The local industries are not hiding their lights under a bushel, but on the contrary they are putting them on a candlestick where all the citizens of Santa Ana and vicinity may see them and not only know the names of the firms producing the made-at-home commodities but to acquaint them with the large VARIETY of merchandise that is produced within the confines of Santa Ana's metropolitan area.

Put your shoulders to the wheel instead of your back to the wall in this offensive made-at-home products campaign.

PROPOSED CHANGES IN APIARY INSPECTION LAW

WEST ORANGE, Nov. 26.
Editor Register: As I am anxious that the bee men of the county may have a chance to know just what this amendment to the bee inspection law contains that is objectionable to me, I trust you will print Sections 1 to 5 and then give us No. 13, for it is numbered just right, I must say. According to No. 5 we are to burn all hives that are found infected with either American or European foul brood. That particular section must have been thought up by a lawyer, for certainly there is no need of burning up a colony infected with European foul brood unless it is in the last stages; on the other hand, one infected with American is an entirely different proposition, but at different stages of the disease the appearance of European and of American is so familiar that it puzzles beekeepers with 30 or 40 years' experience. Now if these men can be fooled in their diagnosis of the two diseases, what chance has a college graduate, with a pair of puttees and a short course in agriculture as his sole equipment, to determine the difference between them? One of them could come out to your apiary and after examining some dead bees found in front of your best colony declare them to be infected with the hoof and mouth disease and forthwith start a bonfire with them; when you protested he would pull out his bee law book and refer you to Section 5. Yep, there it is, alright: "Any bees found infected with ANY disease shall be immediately destroyed."

Well, before you can bring enough pressure to bear at Sacramento to get the state horticulturalist to listen to your tale of woe you haven't got any bees left. Section 13 is surely quite a happy thought on the part of those behind this movement, that would appropriate a small item of $10,000 "to be expended by the department of agriculture to carry out the provisions of this act" just like that. Now $10,000 rattles something like real money, and there is no sense in letting one man have this sum to scatter around any way he sees fit. Folks it smells like a pork barrel to me, out of which all of the hams and side meat will be handed to a favored few, while all the bee men will get is the head, tail and feet and plenty of squeals. This amendment was defeated two years ago and let us all see to it that it gets another knockout at the meeting in Los Angeles next month. I thank you.
CHARLES HAVENS.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cured with a "bad" brown taste, a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 50c, 60c—Adv.

STUDENTS URGED TO CONSIDER MINISTRY

ORANGE, Nov. 29.—Students who are selecting occupations to enter were asked to consider the ministry on an equal basis with other occupations by the Rev. Earl P. Cochran in the Sunday morning services of the United Presbyterian church yesterday morning.

The topic of the sermon, "The Abundant Life" developed the idea of the difference between the ordinary life and the "abundant life."

Those who are fitted for the ministry should take up the work, as there are all too few pupils in the theological school who are able to carry on the work, he said.

Young people were invited to attend the morning service because of the topic. The text was taken from John 10:10. The evening sermon was upon the apostle Thomas and was the third of a series upon the apostles.

EVENING SALUTATION

How poor are they that have no patience!
What wound did ever heal, but by degrees?

WE NEED AN EXECUTIVE

Santa Ana's form of city government doubtless worked very well when Santa Ana was incorporated under it along in the 80's. Santa Ana at that time was a village of perhaps 3000. Santa Ana today, with 10 times the population, is endeavoring to operate its municipal business under the old form.

We need a change in our form of government. We need concentration of authority. City Trustee E. B. Collier, in his statement issued a few days ago, hit the nail squarely on the head. He said that Santa Ana will continue to have serious difficulties in handling its changing problems until it gets an executive.

"I don't care whether you call him a mayor, a city manager or something else," said Collier. "What this city needs is an executive."

The Register Saturday published a diatribe launched against Walter Wray and the Santa Ana water department by I. A. Myers. The board of city trustees has been endeavoring to find a way whereby money could be put into the fire and police funds to pay the expenses of those departments. Mr. Myers suggests "Fire Walter Wray." On second thought, Mr. Myers adds, "Fire the whole bunch at the city hall water department."

We can't see that firing trained workers, who, so far as we can see, are doing their work efficiently, and putting in untrained workers in one department of the city's business, is any solution for the troubles that face the city council. The difficulty is fundamental. It goes back to the form of government. We need an executive, hired to give his time to managing the city's business.

KEEPING OUT OF WAR

Commenting on some remarks of an American college professor on responsibility for the World war, a Toronto newspaper makes this impressive protest:

"It is a remarkable phenomenon that so many otherwise intelligent people, both here and in Britain, have developed in the years which have elapsed since the armistice an apparent disposition to regard the war as a mistake which might and ought to have been avoided, and a mistake which they could never countenance again. It cannot be sufficiently emphasized that such a view rests upon no moral or rational foundation, and that, given precisely the same conjunction of circumstances, the British people, in which we include Canada and the Empire, would have no alternative choice consistent with honor and righteousness, and for the maintenance of these in national life there can be no price too high."

Many Americans today are inclined to speak in similar fashion of the entrance of the United States into the war, evidently assuming that our country could have kept out, or would have kept out, except for the more or less accidental or wilful action of this or that person or group.

The fact is, probably, that our participation in the war, as it developed, was almost as inevitable as Great Britain's. It seemed inevitable then, to an overwhelming majority of Americans, and nothing but forgetfulness now will pronounce it otherwise. Not physical necessity but moral necessity, represented in a national state of mind, drove us in.

Unless human nature has changed marvelously all at once, it will probably be the same if another great war ever develops. The thing to do is to stop complaining about the past and try to shape things so as to prevent the start of another war.

FIRST AMERICAN CATHEDRAL

We are rapidly getting acquainted, nowadays, with a lot of American pioneers formerly overlooked or disregarded. The latest revelation brings truly remarkable news of one of the famous old Norse explorers, Eric the Red.

It was long known that Eric had headed a colony of Norsemen who settled in Greenland and had explored a large part of the Atlantic coast, but the extent of the Greenland settlement was not realized. Dr. Noerlund, who has been conducting archeological resources in that forbidding northern land, has returned to Copenhagen with an account of a regular city built by those old Norsemen at Livo. He has discovered the foundation of a large cathedral and many other buildings, among them a bishop's palace of red sandstone that is said to have covered five and a half acres.

Think of a Christian cathedral in America in the twelfth century. We shall have to revise some of our historical ideas and give due credit to pioneers far earlier and more daring than our own New England and Virginian settlers.

PRACTICAL FARM AID

Congress will be asked soon to appropriate $10,000,000 for a national fight against the European corn borer. This is a worthy cause and a practical form of farm relief, in which congress should take a serious interest.

This pest is slowly spreading west and south. It infests already several states and many million acres of land. If not stopped, it will inevitably sweep over the whole country and ruin the greatest of American farm crops.

Ten million dollars is not much for such a contest. It would serve, however, to pay for what is most needed—adequate governmental direction of the war against the corn borer, with publicity and advice regarding the best methods and materials to use. The bulk of the work must naturally be done by the local authorities of the various states and communities affected, and by the individual farmers.

SMALLER FRENCH ARMY

The French standing army, through bills introduced in Parliament by the Poincare ministry, is to be reduced from 650,000 men to 400,000.

This does not necessarily mean a reduction of French military power. The smaller number of men in the service at one time is to be compensated by their being fed through the mill faster, so that there will be just about as many trained men as usual available in the country. This is to be accomplished by shortening the period of military service from 18 months to 12 months. Nevertheless the change of policy is reassuring to other nations and should be beneficial to France.

With a standing army so greatly lessened, no matter how many men are on the army reserve list, France can no longer be so convincingly accused of militarism. Other nations will have less fear of her. Rival powers will feel justified in further army cuts. It will save money for Europe as a whole, and foster better feeling.

France herself, although the year of intensive training is expected to cost no less than the former year and a half, is sure to benefit by setting her whole able-bodied man-power free for an extra half-year of profitable occupation.

Should Break Highway Deadlock

San Bernardino Sun
Proposal is made in the north that the legislature provide for the tax of an additional 1 cent tax on gasoline and that the routes on which the money be expended be specified in the legislation.

This would be a combination of certain important features of the two highway proposals defeated at the November election.

During the recent campaign the highways matters figured, along with reappointment, in the agitation that developed between the northern and southern portions of California. Since the election there has been a general demand, except from one particular group in Los Angeles, for the composing of differences. California wants less of this sectional disturbance.

There will be no haste, therefore, by the opponents of discord in California, to make decisions as to what should be done with highway legislation. Somewhere along the line there is a point at which there can be agreement. It will probably be recognized when it is found. Whether the gasoline tax, combined with legislation designating the highways on which the money should be spent, is the solution, it is somewhat early to forecast.

The early proposal of course is that the designation of highways would recognize to a large measure at least the contention of Los Angeles there should be an equal division in the highway money.

There are two other proposals. One is that there be an issue of $50,000,000 in bonds, to be financed out of the existing two cent gasoline tax and the money to be made available during the next two or three years. This would be borrowing the gasoline tax of the future for use in the present.

The other suggestion is that $10,000,000 be appropriated out of existing funds in the treasury.

The breaking of the existing deadlock must, for the general good of California, be accomplished. But even her zeal cannot always prevail. The state that once led the nation in good roads is now lagging. The transcontinental routes have sections within California worse than in any other state.

To accomplish the breaking the deadlock Southern and Northern California must approach the counsel table with a give and take attitude. Both sections of the state are suffering equally from the existing situation and it is apparent that neither can force its will over the other without a renewed outbreak of bitterness that would not be wise.

New Roof for White House

San Francisco Chronicle
In the search for signs of national prosperity, let us not overlook the decision to put a new roof on the White House. After all, it is our house.

And that question of a new roof is one which from time out of mind has been decided largely on the state of the family purse. Necessity has never been paramount.

New roofs have to wait until father can pay for them. In the meantime, mother does the best she can by strategic placing of the dishes and the wash boiler under the leaks when the heavy rains come. But even her zeal cannot always prevail. The spreading blotch in the settin' room ceiling and perhaps a little loose plaster where the water ran down the wall.

But there comes a day when father yields to her importunities and decides he has enough saved up to pay for the job. Then the old roof is ripped off, and the kids have an exciting time gathering up the dry shingles. Mother goes about with a dust cap all day, but she is glad of the inconvenience.

The new roof is the sign of ready money, or at the least of credit. Uncle Sam has the money or there could be no new roof on the White House. And no doubt Mrs. Coolidge and the Nation's callers will be relieved when the job is done.

Health Topics

Editor of Journal of American Medical Association

DISEASE RESULT OF CROWDED CONDITIONS
The accumulated studies of sociologists and hygienists indicate that living conditions have an important bearing on health.

The relationship of proper housing to the dissemination of disease is undoubted. Crowding of people in tenements and slums, with improper accommodations for sewage and water must inevitably result in the carrying of infection from one person to another.

The Medical Research Council of Great Britain has just issued a special report as a part of its series of child life investigations on the manner in which the children live in the cities and in the rural districts of Scotland.

Extensive measurements were made of the height and weight of these children and the type of clothing worn, and the methods of assessing their nutrition and growth.

The study indicated that there was some delay in the rate of growth of the average town child between birth and eighteen months, but that after that date the growth proceeded as rapidly in the town as in the country child.

It also seemed likely that the growth impulse represented by heredity carried the child on to the average size of its parents, even though its impulse to grow was delayed at birth.

The average diet of the city child was sufficient to supply the material and energy required for such growth. Apparently the major portion of the money spent by families in the slums is devoted to food, the deficiencies that exist resting in other factors of life.

The investigation revealed that in the country food was taken at the rate of 3250 calories per person per day, as compared with an average of 2600 calories per person per day in the city.

The investigation also seemed to reveal that the lower number of calories was satisfactory for adequate growth, since the city child leads a less active life and is much less exposed to wind and weather.

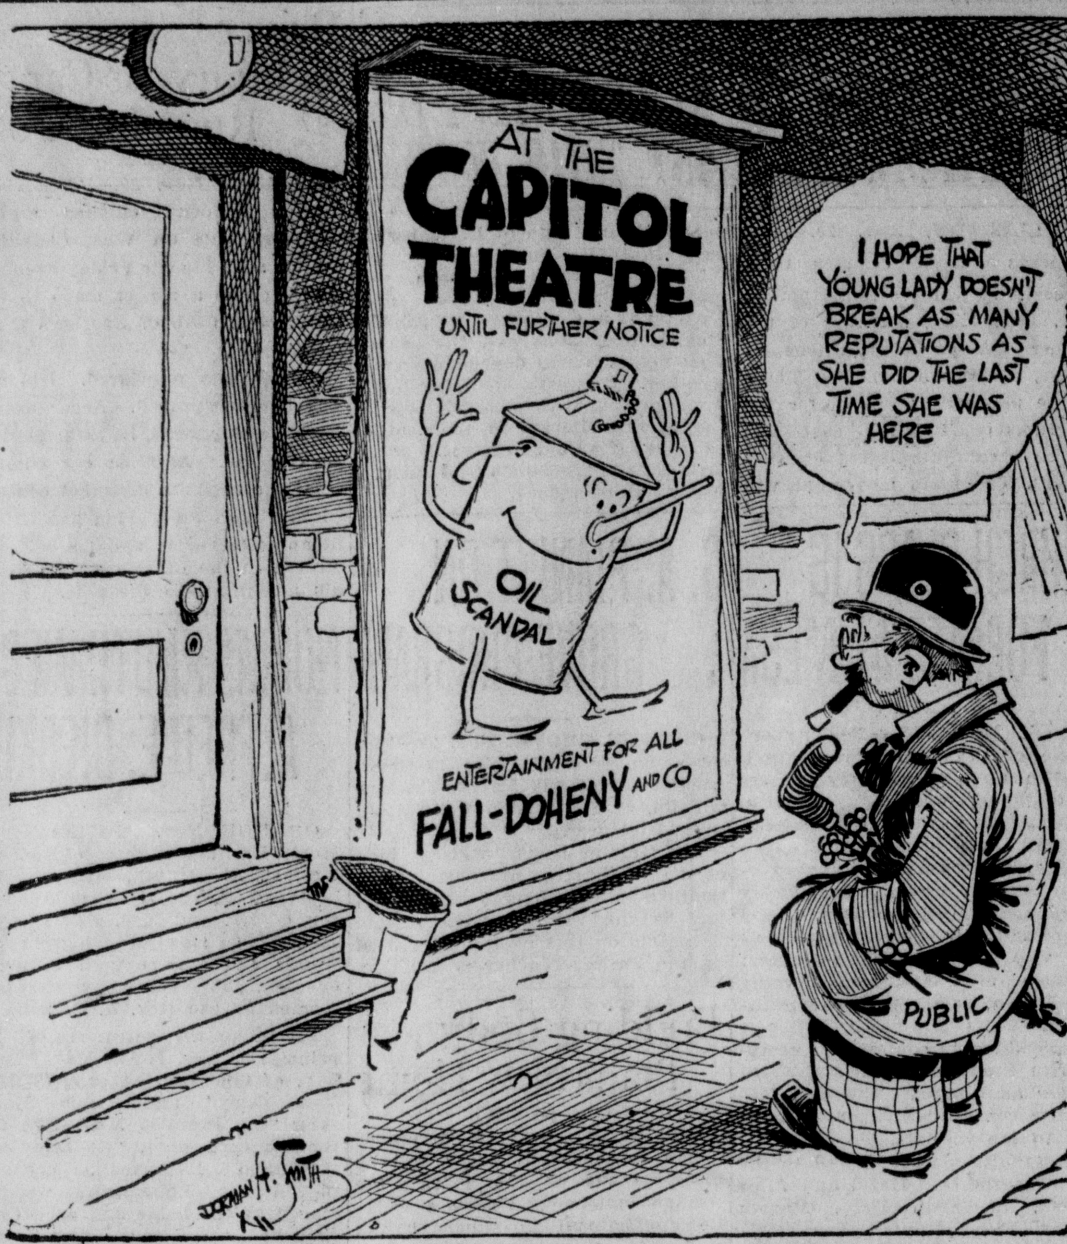

Of all the factors studied, it seemed obvious that the most important one in relation to the growth of the child was "maternal efficiency."

It was established that overcrowded living conditions and an inferior type of mother are likely to be associated, and it seemed to be a question whether larger families were the product primarily of inefficient parents or whether the greater number of children leads to a less degree of care being shown for the offspring.

Bad parents, regardless of their incomes, tend to select bad houses, and the money is spent on other things.

The final conclusion reached by the British investigators was that the saying that "What is the matter with the poor is poverty" is not substantiated, and that the problem of the slum population is far more complex than such a statement would indicate.

The Tree of Yesterday

Bulletin of California Development Association

I am the tree of yesterday.
I stand a useless thing,
My charred and blackened sides bear witness to the carelessness of man who needed me to build his home, his table and his chair.
I might have been the cradle that rocked his babe to sleep.
The brook that flowed beneath my spreading boughs is dry.
No longer does the fisherman seek my friendly shade.
The hunter shuns me from afar.
I am part of a great desolation; the victim of man's thoughtlessness.

I am the tree of yesterday.
WHAT OF THE TREE OF TOMORROW?

The above appeal to protect the timber resources of this state has been sent broadcast by the California Development association in poster form carrying a picture of a charred forest made useless by the carelessness of man.

The forests of California are estimated as one of its greatest economic resources. The west holds the last stand of timber in the United States, California's timbered areas ranking third in volume stand.

Letters have been received from New York, Minnesota and other parts of the United States asking for copies of this appeal made by the California Development association, many communities desiring the posters for use in the schools. Only a limited number of copies are left at the association headquarters.

This appeal is part of an intensive campaign being waged by the state organization to prevent the economic devastation brought about yearly by smoldering campfires, lighted matches tossed on the ground, cigarettes dropped amidst inflammable undergrowth—the thoughtlessness of man.

HAPPY INSENSIBILITY

In a dream-like December,
Too happy, happy tree,
Thy branches ne'er remember
Their green felicity:
The north cannot undo them
With a sleety whistle through them
Nor frozen thawings glue them
From budding at the prime.

In a dream-like December,
Too happy, happy brook,
Thy bubblings ne'er remember
Apollo's summer look;
But with a sweet forgetting
They stay their crystal fretting,
Never, never petting
About the frozen time.

Ah! would 'twere so with many
A gentle girl and boy!
But were there ever any Withered not at passed joy?
To know the change and feel it,
When there is none to heal it,
Nor numb sense to steal it—
Was never said in rhyme.

Questions and Answers
About Entrance Bonds

By the Entrance Campaign Committee

Q. How big is Orange County harbor?

A. It covers 3250 acres; divided into two areas, 1350 acres in the lower bay and 1900 acres in the upper bay.

Q. How can Newport bay be made into a harbor?

A. By first providing an entrance.

Q. Is it worth while to make a harbor?

A. Yes. General Beach says: "Newport bay's proximity to the bulk of the population of Southern California ought to insure a growth which will justify the hopes of those interested in its development," and adds:

"There are no other localities between Los Angeles Harbor and San Diego bay which afford shelter for vessels or which can be converted into a harbor at cost likely ever to be incurred."

Q. What money has already been spent by the county on the harbor?

A. For adding 200 feet to the east jetty.....$72,620.00
For dredging channels.....320,880.81
Diversion of Santa Ana river.....135,000.00
Engineering, general office expense.....47,359.63

$585,802.44

Q. What was accomplished?

A. 2,598,981 cubic yards of dredgings were removed from the bay. 20,542 tons of rock were placed in the jetty which was extended 200 feet. The opening of the Santa Ana river direct to the ocean; bridges were built in connection therewith; a dam across the river leading to the bay and jetties into the ocean at the new mouth of the river were all built and 227 acres of land filled in.

Q. What is the present status of the work?

A. The extension of the jetty—the part built by the county—is in fair shape. The county channel is in good shape. It has retained its dredged depth. It was sounded at the request of General Beach and found to have maintained its original dimension. Diversion of the Santa Ana river has remained as originally worked out.

Q. Is it feasible to make a good entrance at a reasonable cost?

A. Yes. General Beach says: "The entrance to Newport bay may be regarded as unusually favored, for there are no obstructive rocks or shoals off shore and deep water approaches close in, the line of 36 feet or 6 fathoms being from 1000 feet to 2000 feet from high tide line and the line of 24 feet, or 4 fathoms being only from 700 to 900 feet out."

Q. How many engineers of note have approved plans for opening Newport bay?

A. In 1888 Mayor W. H. Benyard for the government approved the opening up of Newport bay; then in 1907 Major (now General) A. A. Fries approved plans for improvement; then Drew H. Dunn and Major Beschie made a favorable report for private parties in 1907. They were followed by Col. C. H. McKinstry in 1913; then by Major E. D. Ardery in 1924 and again by General Lansing H. Beach in 1925.

Q. Is it proposed to do any inside work now?

A. No.

Q. What work is now proposed?

A. The opening up of the entrance to a depth of 20 feet.

Q. How will this be done?

A. By repairing the present jetty, building another jetty on the east side of the entrance, (the outer ends of the jetties to be 600 feet apart) dredging a channel 300 feet bottom width between the jetties and placing some revetments.

Q. Why has the west jetty settled and why are the two jetties needed?

A. The first entrance plan that was suggested called for two jetties. Engineers in Washington expressed the view that one jetty might do the work, that a second jetty might not be needed and its cost saved. It was urged the single jetty plan be tried and this was done.

The general opinion held now is that sand coming into the entrance from the southeast forced the channel over alongside the west jetty. Scouring action has taken place along the jetty base. This has caused settlement. The jetty as originally built was expected to make some slight settlement. This is usual in jetty construction. This is allowed for in General Beach's report for the building of the east jetty.

General Beach states that when two jetties are in place the channel can be maintained and the jetties will hold.

Q. How about quicksand in the entrance?

A. There is none. General Beach was asked to investigate this and reported none. See letter, page 16, General Beach's report of April, 1925.

Q. Can copies of General Beach's report of April, 1925, be had?

A. Yes, drop a line to this association at Santa Ana or phone Santa Ana 222 and one will be mailed to you.

Q. How long is the present west jetty?

A. It is 2100 feet long.

Q. What did this jetty cost?

A. The City of Newport Beach spent $175,000 on this jetty. This carried the jetty 1900 feet out. The county then spent $72,620 in extending the jetty another 200 feet, making a total length of 2100 feet. For further details on Jetty see General Beach's report of April, 1925—Pages 7-9.

Q. What will be the width of the Entrance channel when the entrance work is done?

A. There will be 600 feet between the jetties at the outer end, and the dredged channel will be 300 feet in width and 20 feet in depth. (See General Beach's report of April, 1925—Page 9).

Q. What is the present depth of the County Channel?

A. 14 feet. The Turning Basin is 13 feet deep. The City Channel is 10 feet deep.

Q. Why is only Entrance work proposed?

A. A start must be made and no progress can be made unless the Entrance is made safe and passable for any time and tide. The depth of 20 feet in the Entrance channel will allow even at low tide, vessels of 15 foot draft to enter and leave without difficulty or danger.

Q. What kind of a harbor is it proposed to build—commerce or pleasure?

A. Both. General Beach says: "You can get a lot of business from the pleasure side of the harbor for you have the best location on the Pacific Coast for the real worth-while yachting harbor which in turn should bring a great deal of wealth to your county."

"You can at Newport bay do for a small sum what would cost a great deal to do elsewhere. There are no other localities between Los Angeles harbor and San Diego bay which afford shelter for vessels, or which can be converted into a harbor at a cost likely ever to be incurred."

Q. What will the Entrance work cost?

A. The total cost of the program is $650,000.

Q. How is the amount divided?

A. Into the following amounts:
For building East Jetty.....$130,000
To repair possible sinking.....50,000
To repair present west jetty.....100,000
For revetments.....30,000
For dredging Entrance to turn 20 feet.....165,000
For dredging area at turn—20 feet.....20,000

Emergency expense, Surveys, Supervision Expense, Office Charges and Commission Expense for 2 years.....55,000
Developments and Emergency.....50,000

$650,000

Q. Who will spend the bond money?

A. The Board of Supervisors must approve all the contracts and agreements and expenditures of the Harbor Commission.

The Harbor Commission will submit all bills to the Board of Supervisors for approval. When approved, bills will follow the regular method used in paying all county expenditures, going through the County Auditor's office and then to the County Treasurer.

Q. What kind of bonds are proposed?

A. Twenty year, serial bonds, paying 4 1/2 per cent interest.

Q. How is the Harbor Commission created?

A. Each member of the Board of Supervisors appoints one member of the Harbor Commission.
